SEE SHOWDOWN WITH JAPANESE AS TREATY ENDS

Some Fear Threats of War in East.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—With the commercial treaty between the United States and Japan expiring next Friday, both countries are feverishly preparing for a possible showdown between them on rights and privileges in the far east.

Developments in the Pacific region have raised the question whether there is not more danger of the United States becoming involved in war with Japan than in the European war. While public attention has been concentrated upon the European theater of war relations between America and Japan have been steadily increasing in tension.

Altogether, therefore, what with the possibilities of the United States being drawn into the European war and with potentiality of a clash with Japan, the chances have been doubled of the production of the crisis which the third term boosters are relying upon to impel the Democratic party to renominate, and the American people to reëlect, President Roosevelt.

See Third Term Angle.

Their calculation is that in the event of the United States being involved in war or in danger of such involvement the electorate would not "swap horses while crossing a stream."

Relations between the United States and Japan have steadily worsened for the last two years. Chief cause has been the killing and wounding and destruction of property of American nationals in China by Japanese armed forces and the slamming shut of the "open door" for American commercial opportunity in all portions of eastern Asia controled by the Japanese.

The United States government retaliated first with the "moral embargo" on the sale of American air bombers and bombs to nations guilty of bombing civilian populations. That meant Japan, particularly, and American aircraft manufacturers shut down on sales to Japan.

"Moral Embargo" Expanded.

A few weeks ago Washington expanded the "moral embargo" to include molybdenum and aluminum, both essential war materials and also equipment essential to the production of high test gasoline for fuel for high speed military planes.

In the meantime the Roosevelt administration had befriended China by protesting the aggressions of Japan by loaning China 25 million dollars, and by withholding application of the American neutrality law which it was calculated would have hurt China more than Japan.

Eventually there was launched by such administration leaders as Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate, a movement for an official embargo on American exports to Japan. Senator Arthur H Vandenberg [R., Mich] acidly suggested that if the administration were not to become a treaty breaker like Japan it would better terminate the commercial treaty of 1911 before attempting an embargo of exports to Japan.

Gives Notice of Termination.

That was exactly what the administration then proceeded to do on July 26, giving the required six month notice for termination of the treaty.

Senator Pittman has given notice that he will press his embargo bill as soon as the 1911 treaty expires next Friday. The object is to force Japan to accord Americans their traditional political and commercial rights and privileges in Japanese occupied portions of China. Japan has sought by promise of some concessions to obtain a new treaty or a modus vivendi pending negotiation of the new treaty, but Washington has rejected these advances as inadequate.

In the meantime Japan has been preparing for eventualities. Tokio has patched up a peace with Moscow whereby Japan is freed of fear of attack from the north in consideration presumably of Russia getting a free hand in western China. A similar reported understanding between Japan and Great Britain is being

DEMAND ACTION BY LEGISLATURE ON 'INSANE COP'

Sponsor of Fix Case Figure Sought.

Representative Leo D. Crowley, chairman of the Illinois house committee on public welfare, demanded legislative action last night "to protect the public from maniacs with guns and state policemen's stars."

His demand followed charges of the state's attorney's office that John Howe, a state highway policeman accused in the 11th ward vote fraud jury bribing plot, was indicted in 1930 on four charges of holdup. Kankakee insane asylum officials say Howe was saved from prison by commitment to the asylum, from which they assert he escaped soon afterward.

Chairman Crowley, Republican of Peoria, and State's Attorney Courtney were joined in their move for thoro investigations last night by Samuel H. Shapiro, state's attorney of Kankakee county.

Seek Identity of Sponsor.

The state and county officials said they want to know:

1. Who sponsored Howe in his successful application for his $175 a month job on the public pay roll?
2. Was he spared the fingerprint examination required of state police, and if not who is responsible for putting him on the pay roll despite the criminal record that bore his fingerprints?
3. Has political influence put others whose records have not been investigated on the state highway police pay roll of 350?
4. Why was Howe sent to the Kankakee asylum, in view of his indictments for robbery with a gun, instead of to the state hospital for the criminal insane in Chester?
5. Who failed to reinstate the holdup charges and bring Howe to justice after his escape? He worked under his own name in a loop hotel frequented by state officials until he was given a state job in 1936.

Special Session Action Urged.

Chairman Crowley was particularly interested because the state hospitals are part of the department of public welfare, which is under his house committee's supervision. He said the general assembly should take up the Howe case in its expected special session.

"These state policemen are too often political cowboys whose peak of achievement was the tipping over of slot machines," he said. "Now the charge is made that an insane man under indictment for robbery is out on the highways with a state policeman's uniform, star, and gun.

"Something must be done to protect the public from maniacs with guns and state policemen's stars. Take the state police out of politics."

Courtney Pushes Quiz.

Howe escaped from the asylum before Courtney became state's attorney. Courtney is determined, nevertheless, to find out why the charges were permitted to lie dormant year after year until there now is doubt that they stil can be prosecuted.

F. Lynden Smith, director of the state department of public works, said he would find the record of Howe's sponsorship today and make it public. The state police force is a branch of his department.

Asked why Howe was sent to the Kankakee hospital, Dr. G. W. Morrow, managing officer, said yesterday: "I don't know why he wasn't sent to Chester instead of here."

Dr. Morrow revealed for the first

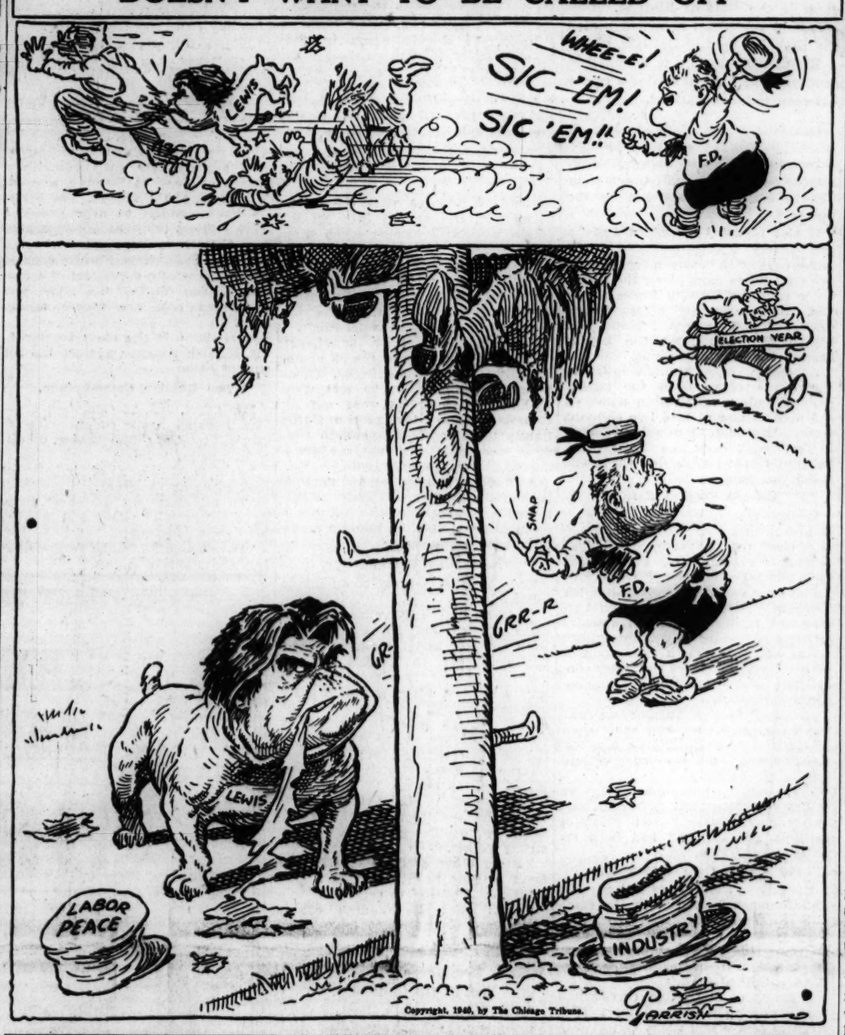
BROWDER, RED CHIEF, HOPES TO WIN TRIAL WITHOUT WITNESSES

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Earl Browder has hopes that he can beat the government's passport fraud charge without calling a single defense witness. The government closed its case Friday. The last stages of the trial start tomorrow and the case is expected to reach the jury of 11 men and a woman tomorrow or Tuesday.

Browder, leader of the communist party in America, is charged with putting the names of other men on visas on three separate occasions and then traveling abroad under the protection of the government. The offense is punishable by a maximum of 10 years' imprisonment and a $4,000 fine.

DOESN'T WANT TO BE CALLED OFF



Germans Turn Grief to Joy by Breaking Law

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—A family in a small German town received an official letter from a Nazi office informing it that the ship on which its son served was overdue and that one had to reckon with the loss of man and ship.

This was a Catholic family. It arranged to have mass read in church for its only son. Death notices were sent to papers and friends. Then, on the evening before the mass for the dead was to be read, while the family was united in grief, some of the mourners tuned in on the English broadcasting station.

A Dangerous Thing.

They knew this was punishable with long years of imprisonment, but they did want to hear what the English had to report on a possible naval battle.

They heard the British announcement of the sinking of a German submarine and the names of the men taken prisoner. The name of the son was among them.

The next morning the butcher, baker, local tailor, and countless friends called and insisted on speaking alone to the bereaved mother. They, too, had been listening to the British wireless and came to whisper that the son was not dead but a prisoner of war.

Hold a Family Council.

Then a family council was held. If the mass for the dead were canceled the members of the family would be admitting that they or their friends had listened to the British broadcast. They decided to attend the mass for the dead, then go home to celebrate with the neighbors and tradesmen.

Two days later an official notice from the Red Cross added to the joyful certainty that the son was alive.

Running Board Sitter Isn't Upset, Tho Car Halts Train

Plymouth, Ind., Jan. 21 [Special].—W. E. Wagner, a Pennsylvania railroad brakeman, was amazed last night when he started to cross the main line toward a dead end street and found an old sedan stalled on the westbound track. Wagner knew the Detroit Arrow, one of the fastest trains on the line, was about due, so he ran to a phone and called the Plymouth signal tower. The operator set a signal, stopping the train a few feet from the sedan. Trainmen found Ralph Warner sitting on the running board of the car, unaware that he had been close to death. He was arrested on a charge of intoxication.

TOO COLD TO CRY, FINNS GRIEVE SILENTLY AT GRAVE OF SIXTEEN

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 21.—"Finland's grief at the loss of many of her best sons is tempered by the thought that this is necessary if we are to preserve our liberty."

Today I heard these words spoken in Finnish at the burial service for 16 soldiers at a small parish village within 15 miles of Helsingfors. A strong faced, strong voiced Lutheran pastor conducted the funeral before a single large grave. Pneumatic drills, brought from a nearby quarry, were used to help dig the grave.

Powdery, drifting snow had covered the bottom of the grave. One by one the 16 white coffins were lowered into the soil which the Finns today are fighting to keep.

Wall of Granite Slabs.

More than a thousand people had crowded into the little cemetery which has a wall made of split granite bowlders. Against the stones rested hundreds of pairs of skis of all sizes. In a small adjoining forest many horses were tethered.

The weather seemed warmer today after the record low temperatures last week, but the thermometer showed it still was 22 degrees zelow zero Fahrenheit. The bodies of the 16 soldiers were brought from the frozen battlefields north of Lake Ladoga, where there has been heavy fighting during the last month. The soldiers were brought back to rest in the cemetery of their village.

The pastor did not make a long address because the wind numbs ears quickly and his own nose was blue at the tip, showing it had been frozen a few days before. Either it was too cold to cry or the Finns stoically concealed their grief.

Reds Can Never Conquer.

"Our Godless enemy thinks it will conquer our country by bleeding it to death thru attacking our towns and villages," the pastor said. "Just as her army can never conquer, thanks to these men who have given their lives for us, so will their airplanes and bombs never destroy the Finnish countryside which has produced our nation.

"In this war the entire country makes up a front against the Russians. Our power is in the knowledge that we fight for liberty and this includes our right to worship God as we see fit. There is no more noble cause that men may die for."

After the funeral the crowd broke into groups. Children on their tiny skis scuttled across the roads to an inviting hillside. Parents anxiously watched the horizon for soviet planes. Several of such funerals have been bombed and machine gunned by Russian flyers.

Salve for Frozen Nose.

The pastor drove off after applying some pig's gall, which is the only sure cure for frozen noses in Finland, and the crowd split up. A few minutes later groups on skis—and I noticed that even grandmothers and granddads can ski in Finland—were crossing surrounding fields.

In the grave one of the families had left two sons, so there were only 15 funeral dinners. I attended one. This family had received the news of the loss of the sons almost two weeks ago. They have two other boys at the front.

GIRL IS TRAPPED BY FIRE IN HOME; BURNS TO DEATH

A girl was burned to death and her two sisters, her mother, and two men were burned or otherwise injured in a fire which attacked a frame and brick flat building at 711 North Throop street early today.

The fire broke out from unknown causes on the rear stairway and spread so rapidly that it trapped the family of Mrs. Anna Syzdek, 49 years old, a widow on relief, on the second floor. Her daughter, Lillian, 9, a pupil at the Motley school, was fatally burned.

Mrs. Syzdek was seriously burned. Another daughter, Helen, 13, was slightly burned and a third daughter, Jennie, 12, received an ankle fracture when she jumped from a second floor window. Mrs. Syzdek's brother-in-law, John Syzdek, 55, and Michael Karos, 46, of 715 North Throop street, were burned in rescue efforts. All the injured but Syzdek were taken to the county hospital. Eight other families escaped safely, one with the aid of William Pantadelos, 23, of 734 North Throop street, a rescuer. The fire did only $1,000 property damage.

Warship Sunk; 81 Britons Die; 118 Are Saved

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The British admiralty announced tonight the sinking of the 1,485 ton flotilla leader Grenville, the fourth British destroyer sent to the bottom by the Germans in 20 weeks of war. According to the admiralty statement, the Grenville was sunk either by a mine or a torpedo in the North sea.

Eighty-one men were listed as killed, bringing the total estimated British naval casualties in this war up to 2,213. One hundred and eighteen survivors of the Grenville's crew were picked up by British warships on the spot and brought to an east coast port. Several wounded were sent to a hospital.

Launched in 1935.

The Grenville, built as leader of the first destroyer flotilla, belonged to the same class as the Gipsy, which struck a mine off the east coast in November. The Grenville cost $1,344,000 and was launched in August, 1935. She carried five 4.7-inch guns, seven smaller guns, and eight 21-inch torpedo tubes.

The Grenville was commanded by Capt. George Elvey Creasy, formerly assistant director of plans at the admiralty, who, with 14 other officers, was rescued from the ship.

Rescue Work Hindered.

According to survivors, the Grenville was steaming in a calm sea when there was a shattering explosion and the vessel "folded up like a jack knife." Rescue work by other warships was hindered by fear of striking a mine.

A Dutch cargo vessel was reported to have passed the same spot a few minutes before the Grenville was hit, which, according to naval experts here, weighs against the theory that a mine was responsible.

Ambulances, doctors, medical supplies, blankets, and clothing awaited survivors when they reached port. Several of the crew were without boots or socks and many were badly injured.

21st Loss for the Navy.

Since the outbreak of the war, Britain has lost 21 warships and auxiliaries. They include the battleship Royal Oak, the aircraft carrier Courageous, the destroyers Gipsy, Duchess, Blanche, and now the Grenville, four submarines, one armed merchant cruiser, and 10 armed trawlers.

In addition, one battleship of the Queen Elizabeth class [30,600 tons] was damaged by a torpedo, the cruiser Belfast was damaged by a mine and two other cruisers were damaged by bombs in raids on the Firth of Forth early in the war.

Merchant Ship Losses.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—Six merchant ships, four of them British, one Swedish, and one Danish, were added to the ever increasing toll of the war at sea today.

The four British merchant ship casualties included the Protesilaus, 9,577 tons; the Caroni River, 7,807 ton tanker; the Kirkpool, 4,832 tons, and the Feryhill, 1,086 tons. The 1,179 ton Swedish steamer Flandria and the 1,496 ton Danish steamer Tekla were the other victims.

[Other dispatches last night said that the 10,500 Swedish motorship Pajala had been torpedoed in the North sea.]

The Protesilaus sank today after striking a mine off the west coast. The crew of 60, of whom 13 were injured, was landed by a rescue vessel.

The Caroni River sank suddenly yesterday off the southwest coast after an unexplained explosion 20 minutes after she left port. While waterfront crowds watched, her entire crew of 35 was saved, but several were injured seriously by the blast which flung many of them into the air. One naval officer broke his legs when he crashed back onto the tanker's deck.

Undergoing Tests.

The Caroni River was undergoing tests after refitting when the explosion occurred.

The Kirkpool ran aground Friday night on the southwest coast but her crew was rescued. Twelve men of the crew of the Feryhill were believed lost when the vessel struck a mine off the northeast coast. Two survivors were landed.

The Tekla was reported to have struck a mine off the northeast coast of Scotland today. Reports conflicted on whether the Tekla's crew was saved. Advices given Scottish lifeboat crews by other vessels in the vicinity said the crew had been picked up by a Norwegian vessel bound for Bergen, but reports in Copenhagen

SURVIVORS TAKE TO BOATS AFTER FIGHTING BLAZE

Stricken Italian Ship Taken in Tow.

BULLETIN.

GENOA, Italy, Jan. 22 (Monday) (AP).—Italian line officials said today all passengers and crew aboard the burning liner Orazio had been taken off safely by the steamer Biancamano. The officials said the Orazio had been taken in tow by the Biancamano.

TOULON, France, Jan. 22, Monday (AP).—Wild seas added to difficulties of rescue ships early today searching for survivors of the 11,669 ton Italian liner Orazio which burned in the western Mediterranean yesterday. The liner's 900 passengers and crew were reported to include Paul Van Zeeland, former premier of Belgium.

Five lifeboats of survivors had been reported saved, but storm and darkness caused the rescue ships to grope cautiously in the area in which the Orazio burned, 100 miles off Barcelona, Spain.

The high waves tossed and scattered over a wide area the lifeboats into which the 600 passengers and 300 crewmen were forced to escape when the Orazio's master finally abandoned an all day fight against flames which swept the decks end to end.

Great Care Necessary.

The greatest care was necessary to avoid running down the small boats drifting aimlessly in the sea. At Marseilles, the return of two French destroyers which sped to the scene when the Orazio broadcast an SOS yesterday, was awaited eagerly.

The destroyers picked up two of the lifeboats. Other ships, including the Italian liner Biancamano, were reported to have picked up more. But the number of occupants of the boats was not known here, and only the scantiest information could be obtained. Cause of the fire which forced the hundreds of passengers and crew to take to the open boats was not known.

After the desperate but futile effort to check the flames all yesterday afternoon, the liner's master sent this SOS at 6 p. m.:

South Americans Aboard.

The liner left Genoa Saturday en route to Barcelona, first stop on a voyage to Valparaiso, Chile. Aboard were many South Americans and Italians.

The Orazio, launched in 1926, figured in war news last fall. She and another Italian liner, the Augustus, were stopped by French warships on Nov. 2 in the Mediterranean while en route from Italy to South America.

Fifty German passengers were taken from the Orazio and a number of German owned securities were found on the Augustus. The Germans were placed in a concentration camp near Aix-en-Provence, France.

The Orazio, capable of making 13 knots, was built at shipyards at Baia, near Naples, Italy, by the Navigazione Generale Italiana.

In 1937 the Orazio played the rescuer's rôle, taking 81 passengers from the Chilean steamship Pudeto, which burned off the coast of Peru.

TAKE GERMANS OFF SHIP

TOKIO, Jan. 21 (AP).—A British warship halted the Japanese steamer

Map indicates where warship took off seamen.

Asama Maru with a warning shot across her bow Saturday and removed 21 German merchant seamen en route from San Francisco to Japan on their way to Germany, it was disclosed today.

Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, termed the incident "very disagreeable" and said Japan was considering a formal protest because the "search and arrests took place so near our shore."

Passengers aboard the Asama Maru, which left San Francisco on Jan. 6, said the Germans were being sent back to the reich by the Standard Oil company when they were captured by the British.

The incident occurred within sight of the Chiba peninsula on Japan's east coast near Yokohama.

Passengers said the British indicated that the captives would be interned at Hongkong. The captives included a captain and part of a group of 40 men who formerly served on Standard Oil tankers in South American waters and were being sent home at the company's expense because of the war.

Ignore 17 Others.

Seventeen of the German group were ignored by the British boarding party, apparently because they were unskilled seamen or because some were over 45 years of age. Two others escaped by hiding, one in a false smokestack and the other in a barrel.

Eleven other Germans, most of them merchants, also were not molested by the British.

The incident, first verified halting of a ship in the Japanese area, was confirmed by a British embassy statement which said that the "removing of the German merchant officers and seamen from neutral vessels on the high seas was fully in accordance with international law."

The boarding party consisted of three officers and nine seamen, who checked all German passports against a previously prepared list.

The ship's captain, Yoshisada Watabe, said he first told the British officer there was "no reason why the Germans should be handed over" but later agreed to the removal.

May Abandon Project.

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—A Standard Oil company project to send several hundred German seamen back to their homeland via Pacific routes probably will be abandoned because of the British seizure of 21 former Standard Oil employés aboard a Japanese merchant ship.

Officials of the company, which is paying board and room for about 1,000 German sailors "beached" in North and South American ports, admitted keen disappointment because of British interference.

About 200 refugees already have been sent from New York to San Francisco and others were to follow.

One official indicated that the company's only alternative may be to support them in American ports for the duration of the war.

May Bar German Passengers.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 21 (AP).—A spokesman for the Nippon Yusen Kaisha Steamship line, commenting tonight upon the British seizure of 21 German seamen aboard the liner Asama Maru, said it was probable his company would not contract to carry any more German subjects across the Pacific. The incident further beclouded the future for 521 crewmen of the scuttled German luxury liner Columbus, who are at the Angel Island immigration station here awaiting transportation to Germany via the Pacific and Russia. They are living here at a cost of $700 a day to the North German Lloyd line.

CHICAGOAN ON LINER.

Dr. R. Robinson Duff of 9230 Pleasant avenue is a passenger on the Asama Maru. He is on a world cruise. Mrs. Duff said in Chicago last night that he expects to return home in April. A Tokio dispatch said Dr. Duff witnessed the removal of the German seamen. He is reported to have said that the British list of the seamen they wanted appeared better prepared than the liner's passenger list.

BRITISH FLYERS BOMB 4 GERMAN PATROL VESSELS

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).— Royal air force planes on reconnaissance yesterday attacked four German patrol vessels in the North sea, the British air ministry announced today. The boats were said to have been sent out in the guise of fishing craft to wireless news of the approach of British flyers.

It said the vessels opened fire with antiaircraft guns while the airmen dropped bombs, some of which fell within a few yards of their targets.

Front Calm, Says Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 21 (AP).—The British-French high command's communique tonight said: "A quiet day on the front as a whole."

The morning communique stated: "Nothing to report."

Nothing Special, Berlin Reports.

Litvinov Reported Ousted by Russia; Believed Jailed

MOSCOW, Jan. 21.—Maxim Litvinov, former soviet foreign commissar, has been removed from his post at the head of the information section of the foreign commissariat, according to a Moscow dispatch to the Stockholm paper Aftonbladet. He is believed to have been arrested. The Aftonbladet correspondent says Litvinov, who took his new post two months ago, came under a cloud for his alleged sympathy with the western powers.

U. S. SHIP IN PORT AFTER 5 BRUSHES WITH SEA PATROL

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 21 [Special].—The American liner President Adams docked here today, and its skipper said the ship had been stopped five times by the British while on a cruise around the world.

At Gibraltar, a shot was fired by a British cutter to stop the liner after its skipper, Capt. Gregory Cullen, misunderstood a clearance signal.

At Alexandria 700 tons of Japanese silk and textiles for Switzerland were confiscated. At the same port the British also seized several bags of mail for Germany—a practice which has been protested by the American state department.

At Colombo, Ceylon, the liner was delayed for a day while the British searched the ship for contraband and inspected the passenger list.

A second, shorter inspection was made at Port Said before the liner proceeded to Alexandria.

At Marseilles, the skipper said, he was given clearance papers by the British contraband control. He thought these would take him thru Gibraltar on his homeward voyage, but as he passed thru the strait a shot was fired by a British cutter after the skipper thought the cutter had signaled him to go ahead. The British explained the "all clear" signal was meant for another ship sailing near by.

WIDOW OF NAVAL HERO TOO POOR TO SHARE HONOR

New York, Jan. 21 [Special].—Mrs. Sadie L. Monssen, widow of a United States naval hero, who has been living in seclusion since the HOLC evicted her from her home in Brooklyn 18 months ago, received an invitation from the navy department today to go to Puget Sound, Wash., for the christening of a new destroyer to be named in honor of her husband.

Mrs. Monssen has been living with her daughter since the loss of her home, struggling to get along on the $30 pension she gets from the government. She says she can't figure how she can get to Puget Sound for the christening. However, Congressman Donald L. O'Toole of Brooklyn said he will try to raise enough money to send her on the trip.

Lieut. Monssen was retired from the navy in 1925 after 36 years' service. He died in 1930, leaving his widow the mortgaged Brooklyn home. Monssen, a chief gunner's mate in 1904, won the congressional medal of honor at the hands of President Theodore Roosevelt for putting out a fire aboard the battleship Missouri and saving the lives of 600 shipmates after 32 had been killed.

WITH AMERICAN-FINNISH VOLUNTEERS IN NORTHERN FINLAND, Jan. 21 (AP).—A score of Finnish-American volunteers for the Finnish army sang "Boomps-a-Daisy" today as they tumbled and slipped thru their first skiing lesson. The volunteers were chiefly truck and taxi drivers from American cities. There are several hundred Finnish-Americans and a number of Canadians now in training here.

FIRE ROUTS SIX FAMILIES.

Fire in a six flat building at 7421-23 Coles avenue early yesterday drove six families to the street in their night garments. The fire started in a second floor flat occupied by Clifford Alger and his wife, Edith. Alger aroused the other families.

FINNS CAPTURE SERIES OF REDS' STRONG POINTS

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—A Reuters (British) news agency dispatch from Helsingfors said tonight that Finnish warplanes had bombed the big Russian naval base at Kronstadt in the Gulf of Finland. Reuters said the Finns also had raided the Estonian port of Baltiski, where a Russian air base was established recently under the terms of a treaty between the two nations.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 21 (AP).—The Finnish army announced today the repulse of soviet Russian attacks on the Karelian isthmus with "heavy casualties" suffered by the invaders.

It also reported the capture of "a few enemy strong points" in the lower part of the eastern front while private advices from above the Arctic circle said the Russian forces which had been retreating after cutting nearly halfway across Finland had braced 50 miles from the border against the pursuing Finns.

As cloudy skies brought relief to the Finns today from the almost daily pounding by Russian bombers, the high command said two civilians were killed and 22 others wounded in yesterday's raids and it charged a hospital marked with Red Cross emblems was bombed.

Estonia Used as Base.

It said that from "enemy airmen who fell into our hands yesterday it is clear that air bases situated in Estonia are being used at least for air raids on southwest Finland."

Russia gained the right to establish bases in Estonia as well as on Latvian and Lithuanian soil in a series of pacts last year. It was the failure of negotiations for a similar pact with Finland for bases and other concessions which led to the Russian-Finnish conflict.

In reply to the Russian air war the Finns said they had shot down 11 Russian bombers and an observation balloon and bombed "certain enemy air bases."

The Finnish communique, reporting military developments yesterday, said two enemy attacks "after powerful artillery preparation" had been repulsed near Taipale.

76 Planes Over One Town.

Unofficial sources estimated 500 soviet planes took part in the raids over Finland yesterday when about 3,000 bombs were dropped. One little town north of Helsingfors reported 76 Russian bombers were overhead within 20 minutes.

A group of newspaper correspondents motoring west from the capital were in raid alarm areas almost constantly. Helsingfors itself had four alarms, but no bombs were dropped.

Hango, on the southern coast, was bombed 15 minutes after the newspaper men left and 14 fires set by bombs were still blazing when they reached Turku [Abo] for dinner.

The Turku Chamber of Commerce assembled soon after the raids and welcomed Frederick Dorsey Stephens, Herbert Hoover's representative for distribution of Finnish relief funds.

Touring Turku later newspaper men saw the results of the 33 bombing raids the city has suffered. There was one bomb crater 20 feet wide within 10 feet of 700 year old St. Henry's cathedral, the cradle of Christianity in Finland. The church windows were shattered, but the building was unscathed otherwise.

A maternity hospital in another section was not so fortunate, it sustained a direct hit which injured a number of patients. A man on guard duty nearby was killed.

The Finnish Communique.

Today's Finnish army communique follows:

"LAND: On the [Karelian] isthmus more activity Jan. 20 than of late. Both our own and the enemy's artillery were busy. At Taipale the enemy attacked at two points in the late afternoon after powerful artillery preparation. At one point the enemy's attack broke in the face of our artillery fire, at the second point the enemy was hurled back by a counterattack. Heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy.

"From other sections of the land front nothing to report.

"SEA: Nothing to report.

"AIR: Several hundred enemy planes are estimated to have flown over Finland on Jan. 20. Both the home area and the war zone were bombed from the air.

Towns Hit by Bombs.

"In the home area, Pori, Rauma, Mariehamn, Turku, Tammisaari, Kotka, Lahti, Lappeenranta, Tampere, and the Kymi valley were bombed in south and southwest Finland. In north Finland, Ivalo, Nurmes, and for the second time a hospital clearly marked with Red Cross emblems in a certain locality were bombed.

"According to reports received so far the raids on the home area resulted in death for two civilians and the wounding of 22 others. From information obtained from enemy airmen who fell into our hands yesterday it is clear that air bases situated in Estonia are being used at least for air raids on southwest Finland.

"Our own aircraft, in addition to carrying out reconnaissance flights and repelling enemy aircraft, successfully bombed certain enemy air bases. According to confirmed reports we have shot down an observation balloon and 11 enemy bombers. Of three of the enemy bombers whose fate was still doubtful yesterday two have been found shot down."

Russians Halt Retreat.

WITH THE FINNISH NORTHERN ARMY, Jan. 21 (AP).—The Russian army on the Salla front above the arctic circle today checked its retreat and engaged the Finns in heavy fighting in the vicinity of Markajarvi, 50 miles from the Russian border.

Light artillery and machine gun fire spattered about during the hours before dawn and thru the day as the intensity of the battle increased.

Finns said their losses were about 40 dead against heavier Russian losses in the past few days.

The Finns said Russians at Markajarvi are strongly entrenched in a system of dugouts forming a semi-circle west of the village. The Finns are close enough to hear the Red army soldiers talk, but are separated from them by a ridge of hills.

Russian ski patrols, Finnish sources said, came within a few feet of a Finnish outpost during the night and exchanged rifle fire before falling back.

The Russian Communique.

"Jan. 21—Nothing of importance took place at the front.

"In all directions [sectors] there were activities of scouts and in some places artillery duels.

"Soviet aviation made reconnoitering and fighting flights."

Important developments in the Finnish war yesterday are indicated by captions on map. Finnish planes are reported to have bombed the Estonian port of Baltiski, where the Russians have an air base, and Kronstadt, a Red naval base.

GANDHI SPEAKS OF COMPROMISE WITH ENGLAND

Prohibits Labor Strikes on Independence Day.

BOMBAY, Jan. 21 (AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi today indicated he favored an honorable compromise with Britain over Indian demands for independence. The spiritual and political leader of millions of Hindus made this pronouncement as reports circulated that he had arranged a conference with India's British viceroy, Lord Linlithgow, for the first week in February.

Lord Linlithgow.

Added importance was given to Gandhi's indication of a compromise by his order to Rajendra Prasad, president of the Congress party, that there should be no labor strikes to augment Independence day demonstrations Jan. 26. For the last 10 years Nationalists have celebrated Jan. 26 as Independence day.

Germs of Settlement.

Gandhi wrote in his weekly newspaper issued yesterday that a Jan. 11 speech by Lord Linlithgow "seems to contain germs of a settlement" of Indian demands for independence.

The viceroy said Britain was ready for any practical suggestion for Indian independence that had general support. Previously, Britain had announced she could not consider any Indian independence proposal until after the European war and until India had settled her internal problems. The All-India Moslem league has expressed itself in opposition to the Congress party demands for independence.

Long Negotiations.

Gandhi suggested there might be weeks of negotiations over the independence question, saying:

"Many 'I's' have to be dotted and many 'T's' crossed."

MUSIC FESTIVAL SONGBIRD TRILLS FOR BRITISH ARMY

BY MARCIA WINN.

Being in England now—if you are a young singer who was launched on a promising career the week before war was declared—is like being in no-man's-land.

This is the term applied to her present life in rural northern England by Marjorie Farrage, the little English soprano who sang before 100,000 persons last August in Soldiers' field at the 10th annual Chicagoland Music Festival. She now sings, when she sings at all, to soldiers who are being trained for war. She divides the rest of her time between the ambulance reserve, with which she works, and the blackouts.

Miss Farrage, or "Miss Britain" as she was known during her brief stay in the United States, represented Great Britain in the Chicago Tribune's annual feast of music. A vivacious, charming girl of 20, she was fêted from the moment she stepped from the Atlantic Clipper onto American soil.

War Interrupts Career.

She sang in Soldiers' field, in Grant park, and over the radio. She was offered screen tests and many commercial contracts. She was deluged with fan mail and adulation. But she went back to England where, as a result of the music festival, she had singing engagements netting her $750 a week.

She didn't keep them—not even one. War was declared while she still was at sea, and by the time she reached London blackouts were in effect. So she went home to Darlington, a little town 150 miles north of London, where her family lives, and was called to duty as an ambulance attendant.

As such, she wrote, she is on duty every alternate week, clad in oilskin trousers, gum boots, sweater, and a heavy tin hat embellished with a white "A." She also wears oilskin gauntlets and carries the inevitable gas mask and with it an oilskin hood that fits around her hat and the gas-mask when the mask is worn.

Up at 4:45 A. M.

"Duty times are from 6 a. m. to 2 p. m. and from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m.," she wrote. "I have to get up at 4:45 a. m. The early morning ride on a bicycle is rather frightening, because blackout restrictions forbid any light which would be visible from the air."

She said the blackouts have brought great changes to Darlington. Dinners and other functions are arranged to coincide with the full moon. Some country people who come to town to do their marketing object to the blackouts. One of them complained: "Why can't they have these dratted blackouts in the daytime so folk can see where they be a-going?"

She said the war has started civilians knitting again. The knitting is done in air force blue, navy blue, or khaki. Darlington is on the railway to London and many soldiers en route to France are detained there for stopovers of several hours. Special entertainments are organized for them.

Sings for Soldiers.

Miss Farrage has sung at many of these, she said. Her most popular number, she said, is "We're Going to Hang Out the Washing on the Siegfried Line." The ambulance forces also give an entertainment every three weeks. At the first of these she sang "Il Bacio" and "Annie Laurie."

"We are a very happy group of girls and we are making the best of the war," she wrote. "We had our Christmas celebrations in spite of Old Narsty' [what the British call Hitler], but the war is very depressing. Coming back to Darlington, which is quiet at the most exciting of times, would have been dull after the very exciting time I had in America, but to come back to Darlington in a blackout was like coming to no-man's-land."

33 CHURCHMEN HIT AT NEUTRAL ATTITUDE IN WAR

See Moral Obligation to Take Sides.

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Thirty-three Protestant clergymen and laymen declared tonight Christians could not remain neutral in the present international conflicts.

In a joint statement, they asserted Christians in neutral nations should not evade ethical issues raised by the wars abroad and that American churches were "under obligations to lead their nation to assume a responsible relationship" to these wars.

"Moral Responsibility" Told.

"To suggest that nothing of consequence is at stake in the success of Japanese, German, and Russian designs on China, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, and the Baltic states, or in the successful resistance of these latter nations, is to be guilty of moral irresponsibility," the statement continued.

"A victory for the allied powers or for China would not of itself assure the establishment of justice and peace, but the victory of Germany, Russia, or Japan would inevitably preclude the justice, freedom of thought and worship, and international cooperation which are fundamental to a Christian world order. Therefore, Christians in neutral countries cannot evade the ethical issues involved and the consequent claim upon their sympathy and support."

Bishop Stewart a Signer.

Admits Belgian Reaction Is None Too Favorable.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Britain's foreign office watched with interest today the reaction in various capitals to the speech yesterday in which Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, said there was no chance of a speedy solution of the neutrals' troubles except thru united action. The speech was received with mingled feelings among the small neutrals, according to reports reaching London.

The London Times, which frequently reflects official views, will point out editorially tomorrow that the speeches of both Churchill and Viscount Halifax, the foreign secretary, were complementary in their statements of the British case.

Churchill stressed that small neutrals, such as the Netherlanders, Belgians, Danes, and Swedes, and especially the Norwegians, have suffered their ships to be destroyed thru German action.

A Reprimand, Say Belgians.

It is reported that the reaction in Brussels is not too favorable. The newspaper National Belge headlines the speech "Strange Reprimand to Neutrals by Churchill" and declares editorially that Belgium does not "feed the crocodile" and is ready to defend her territory against invasion.

[Churchill said: "Each one feels that if he feeds the crocodile enough the crocodile will eat him last."

After stating that by staying out of the war Belgium does not fail her engagements, the National Belge adds:

"May we say that our king, our government, and our parliament, who unanimously approved the speech of former Premier Paul Spaak defining the reasons for remaining neutral, are better placed and qualified to judge the interest of our country?"

Neutrals Attacked, Dutch Told.

In the Netherlands the Rotterdamsche Courant heads the report of the Churchill broadcast a "Sharp Attack on Neutrals," while the Handelsblad headlines "Churchill Calls Neutrals to Arms." There is no other comment. Observers feel that the Netherlands government has not altered the belief that if it remains neutral it is possible that Germany will not attack the Netherlands.

London hears that Copenhagen, Denmark, regards the speech as one of the most important since the war began. The Danish press gives it prominence but does not comment.

Foreign correspondents were told by the foreign office that Churchill's speech did not mean a change in British policy.

France Gives Full Approval.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—Winston Churchill's warning to neutrals that their best safety does not lie in passivity received the full approval of France today.

Australian Paper Criticizes British Reports on War

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan 21 (AP).—The Sydney Sun today criticized British official war reports as "an incredible series of success stories" which "all have the same happy ending—the Nazis are ignominiously beaten off." The Sun said: "This ostrich like attitude can easily lose the war. It cannot win it."

British Destroyer Sunk in North Sea

said nine men were drowned, including the captain.

Four survivors from the Swedish steamer Flandria landed at Ijumiden, the Netherlands, after spending two days in an open boat. They related that their vessel struck two mines and sank Thursday while bound for Goteborg, Sweden, from Amsterdam. Seventeen of the crew were reported lost. The survivors were picked up yesterday by the Norwegian steamer Balzac.

Damaged in Collision.

A collision damaged the 10,786 ton British liner Llandaff Castle, which was en route to South Africa, and she put back into port. Her passengers returned home but expected to resume their journey in a few days.

The crew of the Norwegian merchantman Notos reported that a submarine attacked her unsuccessfully and may have been sunk. Reaching a northern port, the crew said the submarine attacked off Scotland yesterday. A loud explosion and dense smoke came from the submarine, which disappeared. The explosion was heard after a torpedo passed the bow of the Notos. The crew had taken to lifeboats but returned to the ship when the submarine failed to reappear.

IL DUCE TELLS HIGH HOPES FOR ITALIAN WHEAT

ROME, Jan. 21 (AP).—Premier Mussolini predicted today that Italy's 1940 wheat crop would be nearly sufficient for domestic needs provided weather conditions are favorable during May and June. Il Duce made the prediction while addressing several hundred farmers, to whom he presented prizes for their contribution to "the battle of grains."

The question, Mussolini said, was whether Italy would have another wheat crop of 8,820,000 tons as in the last three years—an amount sufficient to cover the country's requirements.

"If climatic conditions in the months of May and June are favorable, as we ardently hope," Mussolini declared, "the harvest should be close to the total necessary to guarantee 45 million Italians their bread."

MASS CELEBRATED IN CATHEDRAL WHICH PIRATES WRECKED

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Jan. 21.—For the first time since the old city of Panama was sacked by pirates led by Henry Morgan, 269 years ago, mass was celebrated today in the ruined cathedral. The ceremonies commemorated the start of the construction of the new city of Panama on the present site Jan. 21, 1673.

After the defeat of the Spanish defenders, Morgan and his buccaneers looted and then destroyed the town, but the ruins of the cathedral and other stone buildings have remained in a fair state of preservation.

Two hundred school children took part in the services, which were conducted by priests of San José church. This now is known as "The Church of the Golden Altar," because the altar of pure gold which priests saved from the pirates is preserved there. History says Morgan left the sacked city with 175 horses and mules laden with gold, silver, and precious stones.

Escaped German Given to British at Panama Canal

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Jan. 21.—Germany suffered a diplomatic reverse here last night when Hans von Appen, who, by feigning serious illness, escaped from the German freighter Duesseldorf, which had been seized by a British warship, was surrendered to the British by American Panama canal authorities.

U. S. ENVOY GIVES AMERICAN VIEWS TO DUTCH QUEEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Jan. 21.—American Minister George A. Gordon, acting on instructions from President Roosevelt, had an audience with Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands some time during the week-end, it was disclosed today. Gordon was understood to have explained the American attitude on the European situation to the queen.

Leaves to Be Restored.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 21 (AP).—An official announcement said today that periodic leaves in the Netherlands army, canceled one week ago, would be restored beginning next Wednesday "provided no unexpected unfavorable circumstances arise."

Cancellation of army leaves last Sunday was accompanied by an official explanation that the action was taken "in view of certain less favorable symptoms in the international situation."

4 Killed, 2 Injured When Crack Train Strikes Auto

Augusta Springs, Va., Jan. 21 (AP).—Four persons were killed and two others injured today when their automobile was struck by the Sportsman, crack Chesapeake & Ohio westbound train. The dead were A. M. Jackson, 45; Ellen Fridley, 7; Mrs. Henrietta Logan, 35, and Walter Goff, 20. George Logan, 40, and Sam Spradlin, 24, were injured. All six lived in this community.

EX-MINISTER ASKS CANADA TO BAR WHEAT FOR REDS

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21 [Special].—The protest of Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario against the sale of Canadian wheat to Russia was seconded today by W. R. Motherwell, former minister of agriculture in the Canadian ministry of Premier W. L. MacKenzie King. Motherwell said at Winnipeg that acceptance of such business was equivalent to supplying food to the enemy.

While the wheat might never get any further than Vladivostok, the Siberian port to which it is said to be consigned, Motherwell said, its arrival there would release a corresponding quantity of wheat grown in the Ukraine or adjacent territory for export to Germany. He urged that a way be found to stop the transaction.

Reports from Winnipeg tell of substantial purchases of oats and oat products for shipment to Finland, but it cannot be learned here whether the Canadian government, which Premier King admitted has been considering economic aid to Finland, is behind the purchases.

Maiden Flight Completed on Moscow-Berlin Airline

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—The maiden flight of the new Moscow-Berlin air route was successfully concluded this afternoon with the landing of a Russian plane flying on regular schedule at Rangsdorf airport here. From now on the route of the German-Lufthansa-Russian Aerofleet air lines will be flown daily via Danzig-Koenigsberg-Bialystok-Minsk.

REVEAL ALLEGED TREATY PLACING CHINA UNDER JAPS

Chinese Bare Purported Wang Pact Terms.

HONGKONG, Jan. 21 (AP).—Two former followers of Chang Ching-wei, Japanese approved head for a proposed new Chinese government, today disclosed a purported pact between Wang and Japan which they said would virtually reduce China to the status of a dependency of Japan.

The alleged agreement was published by the Hongkong newspaper Takungpao, to which it had been sent by Kao Tsung-wu, former chief of the Asiatic affairs department of the Chinese foreign office, and Tao Hsi-sheng, Chinese writer. It is said to have been signed in Shanghai on Dec. 30.

An official in Chungking affirmed that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government had received copies from the two men and said it regarded them as authentic.

[Yakichiro Suma, spokesman for the foreign office at Tokio, said the purported pact published in Hongkong "sounds like Chinese propaganda." He added that such an agreement cannot exist because the new regime has not been established.]

Wide Concessions to Japs.

The terms of the alleged agreement, which includes widespread concessions for Japan, included Chinese recognition of Manchukuo, general coöperation among Japan, China, and Manchukuo; establishment of a common front against communism, designation of North China and Mongolia as a special zone for defense and economic development for Japan, and recognition of Japan's economic predominance in the lower Yangtze valley and her paramount position in certain islands off China, including Hainan and Amoy. Tariffs and a customs system would be designed to promote commerce among China, Japan, and Manchukuo.

Other provisions given were for the stationing of Japanese troops in various areas, with Japan reserving the right to claim and supervise all communication facilities there; reduction of Chinese police and army forces to a minimum, and indemnification of Japanese nationals for losses suffered since the beginning of the war.

Country to Be Divided.

The new central government eventually would absorb the Japanese dominated government of Nanking, but in lieu of the existing provisional government at Peking there would be established a political council of North China with broad autonomous powers. Broad autonomous powers for Mongolia also would be recognized. North China would consist of Hopei, Shansi, and Shantung provinces, on the south of the great wall, and a part of Honan. The term "Mongolia" was intended to designate in general the territory north of the inner great wall.

SWISS PREPARE EVACUATION OF KONSTANZ AREA

KREUZLINGEN, Switzerland, Jan. 21 (AP).—The Swiss army commander of the Kreuzlingen area, where the German city of Konstanz gives Germany its only stronghold on the southern bank of the Rhine, issued instructions today to the population of more than 40,000 for total evacuation in case of danger. It was considered a routine measure, but was said to show that the Swiss are taking no chances on where fighting may break out on the western front.

Konstanz, linked to Germany by a bridge across the Rhine, is faced by Switzerland's Winkelried defense line, named in honor of Arnold of Winkelried, who gathered Austrian lances into his body to clear the way for his Swiss confederates in a battle against the Hapsburgs in 1386.

CHINESE BREAK THRU JAP LINES IN CANTON DRIVE

HONGKONG, Jan. 22 [Monday] (AP).—Chinese military dispatches today reported Chinese armies had dispersed Japanese forces at several points outside defense lines surrounding Canton in Kwangtung province, southeastern China.

Sharp fighting was reported, with the most severe clash occurring at Tsengshing, 45 miles northeast of Canton. Chinese troops were said to have forced their way into Tsengshing and engaged the Japanese garrison in hand-to-hand fighting. The dispatches said the Chinese had occupied most of the town.

Chinese sources also said the Japanese suffered 600 casualties in fighting in the vicinity of Nanning, Kwangsi province.

This agreement is said to provide that Japan will not attack Hongkong or other British possessions or the Dutch East Indies in consideration of the British accepting Japanese control of China and remaining neutral if war should develop between Japan and the United States.

The Roosevelt administration has been pressing defense measures in the Pacific. Reënforcements of our Asiatic fleet, particularly in aircraft and submarines, have been dispatched to the Philippines. The administration has revived the plan to expend 5 millions improving the harbor at Guam, where the navy wants to build a strong naval base eventually. Congress knocked out this appropriation last year in order to pacify the Japanese who argued that fortification of Guam would be pointing a spearhead at Japan.

Rush Island Base Work.

Equipment of Midway and Wake Islands in the central Pacific as naval aviation bases is being rushed. On Nov. 30 the President issued an executive order suspending the eight hour day provision of the wage hour act on labor on these islands in order to expedite the completion of the air bases "within the time required by the interests of the national defense."

Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, told the house naval affairs committee that mobilization of the navy "may come a great deal sooner than we expect" and that we should make top speed preparations for it.

ITALY APPROVES RULE OF CHINA BY JAP PUPPET

Recognizes Wang Regime Before It Is Set Up.

ROME, Jan. 21 (AP).—Italy today officially announced virtual recognition of a Japanese controled government of China under Wang Ching-wei even before it was formed.

Wang Ching-wei.

The Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, was disclosed to have offered Wang "comradely collaboration" in a telegram which predicted "China, with her great neighbor, Japan, will find a new era of prosperity and friendship."

Wang, former Chinese premier who was ousted from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's régime a year ago, replied that he appreciated "the full value" of Count Ciano's message and defined his goal as piece, and the placing of Chinese-Japanese relations on a basis "rid of all errors of the past."

Chiang May Break with Italy.

Chinese circles in Rome indicated Chiang's government would seek an explanation from Ciano. They said the telegram might result in a rupture of diplomatic relations between Italy and the present Chinese government.

Relations between Italy and Chiang's government have been no more than nominal for some time.

Ciano's telegram surprised most foreign representatives, including the Chinese. It read:

"The news comes to me from Japan that it is confirmed that your excellency agreed to form a new Chinese government.

"I am sure that under your excellency's guidance pacified China, with her great neighbor, Japan, will find a new era of prosperity and friendship.

"I must express most sincere felicitations and I assure you that Fascist Italy is ready to offer your work of national reconstruction her comradely collaboration."

Japanese See 3 Motives.

Japanese interpreted the telegram as indicating Italy's desire: [1] To establish an anticomintern front in China. [2] To support Japan's program for a new order in the far east, and [3] To be the first nation formally to recognize Wang's government when it is eventually formed.

It is also said that Italy, since its trade with China has dwindled, sees a chance to do more business with a régime under Japanese domination.

[The Japanese cabinet on Jan. 8 decided the time had come to establish a new central government in China under Wang Ching-wei, but the date for launching the régime remains undetermined.]

French Troop Train and Freight Collide; 7 Killed

BALKAN ENTENTE MILITARY AID IS RUMANIAN GOAL

Seeks Alliance to Ward Off Attacks.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 21 (AP).—Rumania is seeking to turn the Balkan entente into an outright military alliance which would protect her against attack by Russia or Hungary.

The government of King Carol, it was learned from excellent sources, opened its campaign in this direction at a meeting on the frontier last Friday between Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu and the Jugo-Slav Foreign Minister Aleksander Cincar-Markovic, and will throw its full energy into the diplomatic struggle at the meeting of the Balkan entente on Feb. 2.

Has Empire Guarantee.

The Balkan entente, composed of Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, Greece, and Turkey, was formed after the world war to oppose any eventual Bulgarian attack to regain lost territories.

Turkey already is in alliance with Britain and France, and Rumania has received guarantees of her independence from the two western European allies.

A similar defensive league of southeastern European countries—the little entente—was formed to hold Hungarian revisionist aims in check, but this group, under French tutelage, fell apart when Czecho-Slovakia disappeared.

Face Difficult Task.

With the Balkan partners lukewarm toward making their entente more aggressive in these dangerous times, Rumania admittedly faces a difficult task in persuading the other members to enter an outright military alliance.

Her main argument, however, is that if other members of the entente stand by and let Rumania be partitioned it will not be long before they may face the same fate.

Gafencu's heaviest pressure will be exerted on Jugo-Slavia, whose assistance is vital.

Fears Poland's Fate.

One reason why Rumania wants the support of the Balkan Entente so urgently is her fear that in case of attack she might be isolated from British and French aid, as was Poland.

Rumania has been given new concern in recent days by the quickening of the trade war between Germany and Britain and France within her frontiers.

As Germany brings pressure to speed delivery of supplies British agents are going thru Rumania buying up stores to keep them out of German hands. There are swarms of British and German buyers and agents in Bucharest.

WANG TO PARLEY WITH PEKING AND NANKING CHIEFS ON NEW RULE

TSINGTAO, Jan. 22, [Monday] (AP).—Wang Ching-wei, former Chinese premier, arrived here today to confer with heads of the Japanese controled governments at Peking and Nanking in an attempt to agree on a new central régime.

Wang Keh-min, chief of the Peking provisional government, arrived with Lieut. Gen. Seiichi Kita, Japanese military attaché and political manipulator. Nanking representatives are expected tomorrow.

Japanese Detain American Correspondent in Tokio

TOKIO, Jan. 21 (AP).—An American newspaper man, James Young, Tokio correspondent for International News Service, was detained today by police who failed to give any reason for their action. It was presumed, however, that authorities were investigating Young's trip to Chungking, China's temporary capital, from which he returned recently.

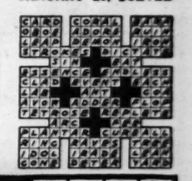
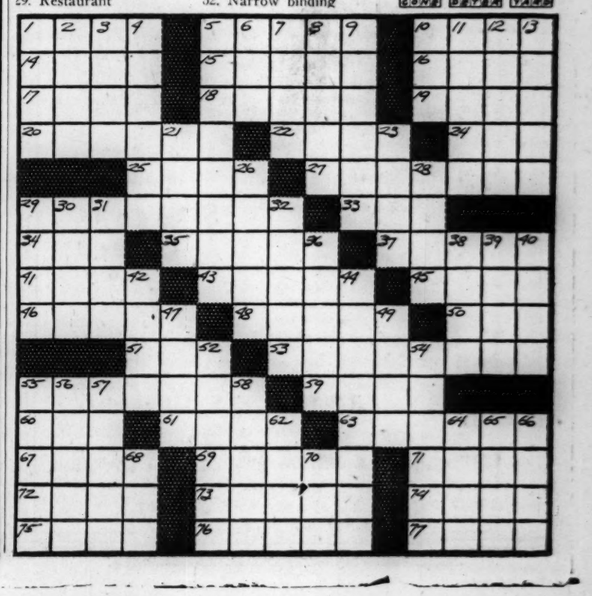
PUZZLE OF SATURDAY, JANUARY 20, SOLVED





CALIFORNIA UNION ASKS GREEN'S AID TO FIGHT SCALISE

Fear Another 'Chicago Coup' by Labor Boss.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 21 [Special].—Members of local No. 117 of the Elevator Operators' union sent an appeal today to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asking help in their court fight to prevent their union and its treasury from being swallowed by George Scalise, the New York union boss recently revealed as an ex-convict who served 4½ years in federal prison for white slavery.

The fight is expected to reach a critical stage next Tuesday before Judge I. M. Golden of the Superior court.

Other Unions Join Plea.

The appeal to Green was sent by Jack Foley, an elevator operator acting for his union and for others of the building service group. The other unions involved in the litigation are the Theater and Amusement Janitors, local No. 9; Apartment House Employés, No. 14; Building Service Employés, No. 87; Window Cleaners, No. 44; Hospital and Institutional Workers, No. 250, and the Building Service Employés' International union thru which Scalise rules as president, from New York City.

Judge Golden has been informed of a precedent involving the Chicago union of elevator employés which was taken over last year by Scalise after the murder of a reputed bodyguard of Matt Taylor, union leader who, until the murder, had defied Scalise.

Court Favors Union Rule.

The rank and file of the unions are said to be fearful of Scalise's success here. Judge Golden has intimated he believes labor should control itself and not look to the courts for direction. The anti-Scalise element, however, says it cannot get justice thru organized labor unless Green comes to its aid.

The controversy is the outgrowth of the suspension of Charles Hardy Sr., Charles Hardy Jr., and George Hardy, officers of Local No. 87 of the Building Service Employés union by Scalise, and the filing of a complaint and a cross complaint by individual members of theunion and the unions as an entity. They charged Scalise with conspiring with Meyer Lewis, a Chicagoan, to take over the unions illegally.

Additional charges, supported by affidavits alleging gangster methods, threats, and various forms of intimidation, were contained in a complaint in intervention filed on behalf of the Hardys on Jan. 11.

Union Exonerated Hardys.

The proceedings were further enlivened when J. B. Padway, attorney for Scalise and Lewis, read to Judge Golden excerpts from an affidavit accusing the Hardys of many "illegal acts" in addition to the 19 charges which Scalise originally filed against them in the union ouster proceedings. The union's local executive committee had exonerated the Hardys on the original charges.

The affidavit Padway presented said the Hardys derived income from taverns, chicken farms, and other nonunion sources and also alleged that the union had six collectors who conspired with the local officials to withhold from the international, collections from union members and to collect percentages of salaries.

Padway demanded the court appoint a receiver for the union.

The action of Jan. 11 followed the granting on Dec. 27 by Superior Judge James G. Conlan of a temporary restraining order enjoining Scalise agents from assuming control of the building service unions and enjoining them from surrendering their records.

One of the affidavits filed in the case quoted a report from Chicago last July linking Scalise to an asserted attempt to take over the Chicago Elevator Operators' union under similar circumstances. In the course of that strife, Louis Schiavone, former Capone henchman, was murdered. A copy of a union audit was found on him.

Charge He Gets $120,000 a Year.

Another affidavit by Russell R. Dreyer, secretary treasurer of the Apartment House Employés union, local 14, concerned information he had received by mail charging that Scalise draws a salary of $120,000 and expenses of $25,000 annually. It also charged that Scalise was on parole from the federal prison in Atlanta following his conviction on Mann act charges.

The group for which Foley is spokesman is circulating a letter among eastern locals which come under Scalise's domination. They say Scalise is using the same tactics here that were successful in Chicago, Los Angeles, and New York. They charge his animosity toward Charles Hardy Sr. is due to his belief that Hardy exposed Scalise's prison record.

Charge Five Domination Attempts.

The letters cite five instances in the last seven months in which Scalise has accused local union officials of financial dishonesty preliminary to ordering the suspension of the officials and their replacement with men of his personal selection. As given, they are:

"Local 32-B, New York. Building Service, largest union, 30,000 members. James Bambrick accused by Scalise. District Attorney Dewey today is furnishing a bodyguard for Bambrick.

"Locals 101, 72, and 72-B, Los Angeles. Charles Woodie accused of stealing $80,000 and ousted from office. Ray Finelli, personal friend of Scalise, appointed to take charge.

"Local 32-E. This union of approximately 2,300 apartment house workers in New York City taken over by Izzy Schwartz, personal friend of Scalise.

Tells of Hardys' Exoneration.

"Local 87, San Francisco. Charles Hardy, George Hardy and Charles Hardy Jr. are accused of taking $40,000 world's fair moneys; $5,900 in moneys of the international.

"The members of local No. 87 in an overcrowded meeting heard every charge preferred by Scalise against the Hardys and gave them a vote of confidence, exonerated them and started a defense committee to raise funds to help them."

The circular cites the record of the Hardys as labor leaders and concludes with this appeal:

"We are asking you to write William Green, president of the A. F. of L., to investigate thoroly the Building Service Employés international union and to find out what is behind all these ousters. The membership had no vote to elect people to succeed the ousted officers. Scalise's personal friends are appointed to rule.

"Why is there no financial report by the international union for the last five years? Scalise demands a certified public accountant be permitted to audit local union books when he accuses the officers. Let him give his own locals a financial report the same way."

KILLING MARKS CHICAGO ROW.

The Chicago court action involving the elevator operators union which was cited by the San Francisco unionists began June 6, 1939, with a petition filed by George Scalise in the Cook County Circuit court seeking the ouster of Matt Taylor, president of local No. 66. Specifically it asked that Taylor be restrained from acting as president and that he be required to give an accounting of the union's funds.

Taylor fought back. He said he had been forced to place his union under the jurisdiction of the international headed by Scalise. He said Scalise compelled him to do so but at the same time promised never to interfere with the union's local autonomy. Taylor said it was a case of accepting what seemed to be some form of protection for his local against big-time union racketeers.

Audit on Slain Gangster.

On the afternoon of July 5 Louis Schiavone, former Capone gangster, was shot to death as he rode in an automobile along 95th street near Cicero avenue. On Schiavone's body was found a copy of the audit just completed of the funds of Taylor's union. There has been no solution of the murder nor any explanation to officials of how Schiavone obtained the audit.

Shortly thereafter Taylor notified his attorney, Daniel Carmell, to drop his defense to the suit filed against him by Scalise. He said he had made private arrangements with Scalise. On Sept. 19 all demands made by Scalise pertaining to changes in the charter of Taylor's union were met by Taylor at a meeting of his union.

Chicago was invited to St. Paul's winter carnival Jan. 26 to Feb. 4 yesterday by 250 winter sports lovers who came all the way to Chicago to do the inviting. The group paraded thru the loop, led by Miss Caryl Marsh, carnival queen, and J. L. Shiely, the king. The paraders were dressed in winter costume. They left for St. Paul shortly after ending their march.

ARTILLERY'S BARRAGE RAKES NO MAN'S LAND IN MINIATURE BATTLE

An artillery battle was fought in Chicago yesterday. Trees, houses, and supply posts were flattened by barrages from field guns. Bridges were smashed to bits. Deep craters were torn in roads.

But the attack was all in miniature, fought on a 10 by 16 foot table, covered with black foundry sand, in the Army and Navy club, 600 South Michigan avenue. The trees were of green yarn, the houses and supply posts of thin wood, and the bridges and roads from a sand and starch mixture.

The guns were miniature field pieces, fitted with standard panoramic sights taken from regular field artillery weapons, which fired ⅝ inch steel balls at the table-top no man's land from a distance of 30 feet. They were manned by officers of the 331st coast artillery reserve.

Maj. Marvin H. Dixon said that officers of his regiment fight such a battle every Sunday afternoon for training purposes.

JULIAN HUXLEY, FAMED BIOLOGIST, TOURS ZOO IN BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY

Julian S. Huxley, the English biologist, spent a busman's holiday yesterday. He toured Brookfield zoo.

Dr. Huxley, who is renowned as a scientist, also is secretary of the London Zoölogical society and the author of various books on animals and animal behavior. Yet he viewed every cranny, bird, and animal in the Brookfield zoo.

He praised particularly the grottos, barless cages, and modern buildings at Brookfield, saying he had heard the pachyderm house extoled by European zoölogists. His favorite animals, it developed, were the baby antelopes, but he spent some time with two Kadiak bear cubs, eventually intended for his London zoo.

Dr. Huxley was taken to the zoo by Dr. Henry Field, curator of physical anthropology at the Field museum, and Mrs. Field, and was escorted thru the park by Robert Bean, assistant director.

Pontiac, Ill., Jan. 21 (AP).—Fire destroyed the roof and second floor of the Pontiac News-Review building tonight and for a time threatened destruction of four other buildings. The blaze started in a beauty shop on the second floor of the two story structure and spread to the first floor where part of the newspaper plant is housed. Damage to the newspaper plant was more than $10,000. Publication will be suspended for some time.

"I said, 'Good-by pocketbook'"
"But, imagine, I got it back by running a lost and found want ad in the Tribune."

Whenever you lose anything of value, be sure to telephone a Lost and Found want ad to the Chicago Tribune. Thousands of dollars' worth of property is restored each year to owners who advertise in the Lost and Found column of the Tribune want ad section.

Regardless of what you may have lost, or where in Chicago or suburbs you may have lost it, there is a good chance that a Tribune reader will find it.

Every day of the week, the Tribune sells more than 780,000 copies right in metropolitan Chicago. This is from 350,000 to 500,000 more copies than are sold by other Chicago newspapers.

Further, the Tribune is Chicago's big want ad market place carrying far more want advertising and, as a result, attracting far more want ad readers than any other Chicago newspaper.

As an extra service to Tribune Lost and Found advertisers, all such ads are kept for three months after publication in a special register open to the public at the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 S. Dearborn street, and in Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan avenue.

Call Superior 0100—Want Ad-Viser and ask for Miss Miller if you wish to recover lost valuables. Miss Miller will help you word your want ad. If your name is in the phone book, you may charge your Tribune want ad.

IT'S BEEN NICE SEEING YOU

By CALEB

IN THE composite retrospect since our first message appeared in this space on June 21, 1936, visitors to the Caleb Office—as the designation over the doorway reads—have been numerous and welcome.

Among them have been men and women from all walks of life; people engaged in all sorts of activities: representative customers of a cosmopolitan store; typical scanners of the daily paper; best of all, from our own point of view, the flesh-and-blood individuals regarding whom every writer speculates as his mythical "readers."

For in such speculations every writer indulges earnestly and often. And he thinks of his audience in its entirety as "mythical," because he knows that for every one who addresses him through the mails, or calls in person, there must be innumerable others—the great majority—who, through various circumstances, have been deterred from doing either. Yet his preoccupation with them, one and all, is never-failing and eager—for it is their tasks, dreams, plans, ideas, joys, sorrows and problems with which his text must constantly concern itself, or lose "the common touch" on which constructive contact with any public depends.

Those who have formed this quiet processional of our well-wishers, through the months and years elapsed, are therefore often in our thoughts . . . and always in terms of a collective and appreciative "Thank you." Old and young; giving information or seeking it; passing to us new "angles" on living, bright bits of anecdote or philosophy, or evermore welcome encouragement—sometimes, too, we hope, departing with a pleasanter understanding of our organization and its functions—all these have "humanized" the plain routine of the hours, and kept us in touch with that world and its people whom our words would sincerely serve.

From books the writer-student of existence can acquire knowledge, yes. But only from his fellowmen does he acquire that rarer and priceless thing called wisdom. Hence, long after reference-page and volume-of-the-moment have been forgotten, some voice, smile, handclasp or conversational phrase, however casual, remains in mind to renew a sense of purpose and nourish there a hope of work well done.

This same attitude of "valuation," indeed, permeates the Field personnel as a whole. Such human contacts have made the day beautiful as well as busy . . . such personal relations have warmed and illumined the exigencies of trade . . . so that serving has become something as good to give as to receive! That is why, in the informal language of the day, we are prompted to say: "It's been nice seeing you."

DESPITE U. S. AID OCEAN SHIPPING IS IN THE DOLDRUMS

Reds Cause Labor Strife and Profits Disappear.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 21.—Plagued by new troubles arising from the war in Europe and unable to hurdle old barriers, the American merchant marine continues to be an ailing member of the country's economic family.

All the government bootstrap pulling—the direct subsidization of operating and construction costs—has failed to cure the disease. Starting out the year 1940, American shipping presents a series of paradoxes, including:

1. American seamen are paid higher wages and receive more generous benefits than any sailors in the world, yet the personnel is tainted with communists, as findings of the Dies congressional committee showed. Reds have played a major rôle in the violent and prolonged labor disputes harassing American shipping.

2. The United States maritime commission is building at a furious pace new vessels which will be turned over to shipping lines at bargain prices. At the same time American lines rapidly are getting rid of their existing tonnage thru transfer to foreign flag registry or by sale.

3. American citizens are precluded from sailing into combat areas by the neutrality act, but passenger travel to the Caribbean and South America, where cruise minded persons would be expected to go, has fallen off 60 per cent. This drop coincided, incidentally, with White House press releases telling of submarines sighted in the Caribbean and off the Atlantic coast last fall when congress was debating repeal of the arms embargo.

Defends Line Operators.

A defense of the part shipping operators are taking in the situation was offered here by their principal spokesman, Frank J. Taylor, former city controler and now president of the American Merchant Marine institute.

Taylor claimed the shipping lines accepted government subsidies only thru absolute necessity and were going ahead valiantly without asking new forms of cash aid, altho the neutrality act laid up vessels formerly plying the North Atlantic route. He admitted the high compensation enjoyed by American seamen, compared with foreign personnel, but pleaded ignorance on the inroads of communism.

Bad living quarters in ships flying the American flag contributed to the growth of communism within the sailors' ranks, it has been shown. Men were cramped up in unhealthy forecastles and dished up low grade food in the galleys. Taylor denied these conditions still exist. He claimed they were a thing of the past.

Pay Rates Compared.

Under the new wage pact just initialed by members of the Merchant Marine institute and the National Maritime union, pay for an "A. B.," or able seaman, is set at $72.50 a month. He gets free board and lodging, free coffee at any hour, and a number of other perquisites.

In Merchant Marine Statistics, published by the department of commerce for the fiscal year 1938, monthly wages of foreign able seamen were listed as follows: British, $48; Danish, $42; French, $35; German, $50; Italian, $27; Japanese, $14; Netherlands, $50; Norwegian, $42; Swedish, $44.

Correspondingly higher wages are paid on American ships in the engine and stewards' departments.

To make up the difference between these rates and those paid by foreign competing lines, the government is paying outright subsidies to American shipping companies.

15 Lines Get 11 Millions.

According to the maritime commission's annual report, published last week, 15 lines chalked up $11,114,578 in operating-differential subsidies during the last fiscal year.

These included American Export, American Mail, American President, American South African, Grace, Lykes Brothers Steamship company, Mississippi Shipping, Moore McCormack, Mooremack South American, New York and Cuba Mail Steamship company, Oceanic Steamship company, Pacific Argentine Brazil, Seas Shipping company, South Atlantic Steamship company, and United States Lines.

In this same report the commission called attention to the fact that without an increase in pay there had been a marked increase in remuneration in the form of overtime payments.

"Overtime is now demanded for the performance of many tasks customarily performed during the working day," reported the commission. "Some voyage pay rolls show as much as 25 per cent of the total attributable to overtime."

70c an Hour for Overtime.

Sailors are paid for overtime beyond the eight hour day at the rate of 70 cents an hour. They also receive extra compensation for working holidays, handling penalty cargoes such as arsenic, fertilizer and green hides, cleaning bilges and tanks under certain conditions, handling explosives, and for skirting war zones.

A number of American shipping companies also are wards of the government in the replenishing of their fleets. Here again the subsidy is supposed to pay the difference between high labor costs in shipyards of this country as compared with competing yards abroad.

According to the annual report, the maritime commission has contracted for 141 vessels, with deadweight tonnage of 1,440,000, at a total contract price of $345,282,856. Biggest of all is the superliner America, being built for the United States Lines. During the last year the commission paid out construction-differential subsidies of $10,076,894.

Sell Ships to Aliens.

Yet the companies gradually are decimating the fleets already in existence. Two days ago the maritime commission approved applications of the American-Hawaiian Steamship company and Lykes Brothers to sell six American-flag cargo ships to the Runciman shipping interests of London, England.

United States Lines is planning to sell eight vessels to the North Atlantic Transport company of Norway. These were the ships originally scheduled for transfer to Panamanian registry immediately after the neutrality act was signed by President Roosevelt. Public protests forced withdrawal of the scheme, which had been approved by the maritime commission.

On behalf of the shipping companies, Taylor declared all these vessels are over the 20 year age limitation placed upon payment of subsidiaries, as prescribed in the maritime commission act.

Sell On Rising Market.

"This is a time for the American flag companies to get rid of over-age vessels and rehabilitate their fleets," declared Taylor. "Before the war the world market value on ships was $14 a ton, or if sold for scrap it was $5 a ton. Today the market is running from $35 to $40 a ton and scrap up to $21 a ton.

"Thus the companies have the opportunity of selling old vessels at a good price and turning in the profits to the maritime commission for new boats."

Some of the lines, Taylor said, were transfering their boats to South American, Canal-Pacific and Mediterranean routes. He insisted, however, that this is more competition for established American lines and will not dent the trade of foreign shipping companies.

Ply Routes At a Loss.

Taylor described the liner President Roosevelt as plying a "loss run" on its trips between New York and Bermuda. The Manhattan and Washington, which formerly went to English and French ports, are suffering losses on their temporary routes to Italy, according to Taylor.

The United States lines, which operated on the North Transatlantic shipping lanes before the war, is said to be losing $600,000 a month. The Manhattan and Washington are in its fleet.

According to Taylor, the shipping companies are not petitioning congress for any additional subsidies because of losses resulting from the war. Such demands came from other sources in Washington, he claimed. He said not all lines are subsidized, and that only 11 out of 48 companies in the Merchant Marine institute are accepting government money.

KATHERINE QUINZI.

New York, Jan. 21 [Special].—Seeking an annulment from her 22 year old husband, Vincent Quinzi, Katherine Quinzi, recently turned 18, was told by Supreme Court Justice Frank E. Johnson in Brooklyn that freedom from marriage until she was at least 21 would be dangerous. She told of cruelty from both her husband and members of his family. While Justice Johnson suggested the girl might ask for a separation, her attorney said such a plea would involve her affirming the legality of the marriage and thus forever preclude an annulment. She married Quinzi when she was 16.

MILLION DOOMED IN POLAND, JEWRY CONGRESS IS TOLD

Dr. Goldmann Cites Effect of Nazi Persecution.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

"If the war in Europe goes on for another year, one million of the two million Jews of Poland will be dead of starvation or will have been killed by Nazi persecutors."

This statement was made last night before 1,000 members of the Chicago division of the American Jewish congress by Dr. Nahum Goldmann of Geneva, Switzerland, head of the administrative council of the World Jewish congress. The meeting was in the Hotel Sherman.

Dr. Goldmann was introduced as the best informed person on Jewish affairs in the world. While he sketched a dismal picture of Jewish conditions in countries ruled by Germany he declared that the long awaited European crisis is now at hand which will forerun the development of a reorganized Europe. Dr. Goldmann foresaw the probable end of the present conflict before the end of the year.

Greater Crisis Predicted.

"With all the horrors of the situation now, it may be become worse," said Dr. Goldmann as he outlined the plight of the Jews in Poland. "I have predicted that a crisis will come. We can have little confidence in Chamberlain or in Daladier. But we can have confidence in one man—Hitler himself!

"He will not be satisfied. He will go from one aggression to another, and one victory to another until the crisis comes when he will defeat himself. There are two aspects of the crisis now at hand in respect to the Jewish situation—a negative aspect which threatens the existence of millions of Jews, and a positive aspect giving hope for the Jews of Europe. There is a chance that in a year there is coming a new epoch in Europe with a new future for European Jewry."

3½ Million Jews Under Germany.

Dr. Goldmann explained that three and a half million Jews have come under the rule of Nazi Germany with the absorption by Germany of Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, and Poland.

He said the Polish Jewish community had been ruined and added that it is impossible to exaggerate the horrors of the Polish situation.

Dr. Goldmann will speak tonight in Orchestra hall. Max A. Kopstein, president of the Chicago division of the American Jewish congress, last night outlined the congress' activities during the last year.

U. S. GRAND JURY TO HUNT BACKERS OF CONSPIRATORS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Attorney General Robert Jackson announced tonight that the grand jury investigation of the Christian Front case in New York will cover the activities of any individual or group wherever located who may have aided, financed, or incited the 17 defendants.

The defendants, rounded up last Sunday by federal agents led personally by J. Edgar Hoover, were charged with attempting to overthrow the government. A federal grand jury is to consider the case in Brooklyn this week.

The justice department last Friday said it would turn over to the district attorney in Brooklyn a request for an investigation of any possible connection between the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Royal Oak, Mich., and the Christian Front.

Gargle Listerine

Sudden temperature changes, like drafts . . . wet feet . . . and fatigue, may lower body resistance. Then colds or sore throat often develop and germs in the mouth get the upper hand. Prompt use of Listerine Antiseptic may often head off an irritated throat and keep a cold from becoming troublesome—because it kills germs associated with these conditions. MARY M'ELROY, ONCE KIDNAPED, KILLS HERSELF

Daughter of Late Manager of Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 21 (AP).—Brunette Mary McElroy, 32 years old, killed herself today in her home after seven years of brooding over what she termed the unjust punishment of the men who kidnaped her in 1933.

Near the body police found a pistol and a note in the handwriting of the daughter of the late H. F. McElroy, stormy Pendergast political machine leader, who was ousted as city manager last spring. The note said:

"My four kidnapers are probably the only people on earth who don't consider me an utter fool.

"You have your death penalty now —so—please—give them a chance."

Sympathy for Kidnapers.

The note was interpreted in some quarters as referring to her known attitude of sympathy toward the fate of the four men who abducted her.

Clarence Stevens, one of the men sought by federal agents as a member of the McElroy kidnaping gang, still is at large.

Two of the other three kidnapers, Walter and George McGee, brothers, are serving life sentences in the Missouri penitentiary. Walter was saved from hanging by the pleas of Miss McElroy to the governor. A third member of the gang, Clarence Click, who lived on the farm where she was held prisoner, was released in 1938 after serving a prison term.

Despondent Since Father's Death.

Friends said Miss McElroy had been grief-stricken since her father's ouster as city manager nine months ago and his death. Father and daughter had been close companions for years.

Miss McElroy had suffered several nervous breakdowns since her kidnaping which occurred May 27, 1933. She was bathing when two rough voiced men invaded the McElroy home, brushed aside a woman servant, and rushed upstairs.

Thinking the visitors were pranksters she hurriedly completed her bath and was seized by the kidnapers. She was taken to a farmhouse near Shawnee, Kas., where she was chained in a dungeon-like basement and held captive for nearly 30 hours while the abductors conducted ransom negotiations.

At first the kidnapers demanded $60,000, but finally agreed to accept $30,000. The ransom money was delivered by Miss McElroy's father and her brother. Much of it was subsequently recovered.

During one of her nervous breakdowns Miss McElroy disappeared from her home and 11 hours later was found at Normal, Ill.

Returned to Kansas City, she said she held no personal hard feelings against her kidnapers and: "I am sure they do not hold hard feelings against me."

Visits Them in Prison.

"That's what makes the situation all the worse," she added. "I have nightmares about those men and the fates they brought on themselves. I was part of the drama that fixed their destiny. I cannot forget them. I have visited them in prison. Something drives me to do this. I cannot let them go."

In an interview four years ago Miss McElroy said her foremost ambition was to make "normal, acceptable citizens" of her abductors. She took them gifts on frequent visits to prison at Jefferson City.

GARAGE GROUP'S DIRECTOR TO FACE JURY QUIZ TODAY

Emil Mermall, executive director of the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, will be called before the grand jury today in the state's investigation of the goon slaying of Marinus Hvid, a north side garage owner. Hvid was fatally slugged 25 days ago by two men.

Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford said that in addition to Mermall, O. A. Finholt, who audited the books of the garage owners' association, also will be called. Crawford said all members of the association's board of directors will be heard by the grand jury during the week.

According to Crawford, Mermall's books showed that a total of $22,000 was collected during the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1939, and bank deposits revealed that a total of $34,000 was deposited during the year ending Nov. 30, 1939. The difference of $12,000, Mermall said when questioned previously, was caused by operation of the association's magazine.

Hvid's garage, at 3514 North Halsted street, was picketed by the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers and Garage Helpers' union when he was expelled from the association last March. Investigators said there was a working agreement between the association and the union.

Machine Gun Bandits Rob Poker Players; Steal Safe

Five bandits, one of them carrying a machine gun, broke into a poker game in the cigar store of Leoni Manierre, colored, at 204 North Paulina street, and carried off a 400 pound safe yesterday. Manierre said it contained $760, and that the robbers also took $54 from another safe and the $15.50 pot of the poker game.

time the details of Howe's escape. Dr. Morrow was not managing officer of the asylum at that time.

"He did not exactly escape," Dr. Morrow explained, "but was turned out on the lawn with a visitor and was taken away."

Dr. Morrow said the asylum staff found shortly before Howe's escape that he apparently was not mentally deranged, but that this would not alter his status while he was under court commitment as insane.

A. L. Bowen, director of the department of public welfare, took no action yesterday to send Howe back to the asylum. He explained that a notation in the record of the escape had said that Howe was not insane.

Status of Prisoners Sought.

Officials investigating the case said they meant to determine whether the state allows persons found insane in criminal prosecutions to enjoy the same liberty as other inmates.

Shapiro, Kankakee county state's attorney, said: "When a person is committed here, he still is under the department of public welfare, and law enforcement officials certainly should be given reports in order to protect the public."

Howe, who is at liberty on bond on a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the jury fixing, is to appear today in Felony court. Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney who exposed Howe's past, expects to ask a continuance. The vote fraud trial resulted in the acquittal of Sam Orlando and Joseph Vinci, 52d precinct election workers of the 11th ward. They were accused of election fraud. Three jurors have confessed accepting bribes to vote an acquittal.

Three Die When Car Skids Into Chicago-Bound Train

Eagle Bridge, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP).—Two young men and a girl died today when their automobile skidded down an icy hill into the path of the Boston and Maine railroad's crack passenger train Minute Man, which runs between Boston and Chicago via the New York Central. The dead were Harvey Hoffman, 20 years old; his sister, Ellen, 16, both of Eagle Bridge, and Woodrow Robinson, 18, of Hoosick Falls, N. Y. Harry Austin, who lives near the crossing, said the driver tried to stop the automobile, but failed because of ice on the pavement.

FIRE DAMAGES HOME.

Fire, presumably started by an overheated gas water heater, did $2,000 damage yesterday to the home of Mrs. Annie Malone, colored, 4411 South Park avenue.

News from Manteno

Our correspondent in Manteno sends the following items:

Fred Brackenbush, former secretary to Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, suspended managing officer of the state hospital here, has been given a 60 day leave of absence and has gone to California for his health. It had been expected that Brackenbush would be a witness for the state when Dr. Hinton, A. L. Bowen, state welfare director, and Mrs. Lillian Williams, hospital dietitian, go on trial Feb. 13 on charges of malfeasance. They were indicted after 53 persons died of typhoid fever at the hospital.

Dr. Walter H. Baer, acting managing officer of the state hospital, is investigating reports that hospital employés have been taking patients into the village of Manteno and using them as house and yard servants.

Employés at the state hospital have been ordered to remove all personally owned live stock from state property. A number have been forced to give up their cats and dogs. James Carlson had to remove a flock of 100 chickens—fine egg layers.

Dentists employed in the state hospital have been ordered to quit private practice in the hospital's dental offices.

Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, altho suspended from the post of managing officer of the state hospital, still occupies the managing officer's residence. Dr. Hinton has been asked to stop using the state-owned automobile assigned to the managing officer and to buy his own gasoline.

Manteno village officials were notified yesterday by the state department of health that the village water supply is contaminated. Manteno's water comes from a well located 700 feet from the creek thru which state hospital sewage flows. Temporary chlorinating equipment has been installed to purify the water until permanent equipment can be obtained.

DEFENDERS HURL BACK COAST WAR GAME INVADERS

Monterey, Cal., Jan. 21 (AP).—Defending Blue troops in the army-navy maneuvers today held back the invading Blacks whose objective, after their successful debarkation here, was the capture of San Francisco.

The major Black force, the army's 3d division, theoretically was thrown back on the right flank by rapidly moving troops of the 11th cavalry. The defending Blues later were forced to withdraw to their original lines by tank counterattack.

The invaders, who captured Monterey after debarkation from army transports Friday, were expected momentarily to launch a major offensive in their drive north toward San Francisco.

Begin Puerto Rican Maneuver.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Jan. 21 (AP).—Troops of the American army's new Puerto Rican department took the field today to repel an imaginary enemy force attempting to establish a Caribbean base for an attack on the Panama Canal Zone. The maneuvers were the first since creation of the new military department under Brig. Gen. E. L. Daley last July. The department includes Puerto Rico and adjoining islands.

BAPTIST CHURCH BURNED.

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 21 (AP).—Fire starting from an overheated furnace destroyed the Oak Park Baptist church here today less than an hour after morning services. The damage was estimated at $12,000 by the Rev. Fred Phillips, pastor.

COLORADO PAYS OUT QUARTER OF INCOME TO AGED

And State Must Find Five Million More in 1940.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 21 (AP).—Colorado's aged residents, who collected $13,959,000 under the state's $45 pension plan last year—nearly one-fourth of total state disbursements—may get about five million more in 1940.

Altho pension payments totaled more than $13 per capita for Colorado's population of 1,066,000, it lacked $4,994,000 of paying the full awards provided by the constitutional amendment that the voters approved four years ago. From $4 to $14 has been deducted from the pension awards monthly for the last two years because of a lack of funds. This month $4 was deducted, making the maximum pension $41.

40,434 on Pension Roll.

Now a district judge's decision—headed for review in the state supreme court—rules that Colorado can not pro-rate the available money each month among the eligible pensioners, but must pay the awards in full.

The January pension roll of 40,434 is the largest since the nation's most generous aid-to-the-aged plan was adopted. The eligible list increased 3,025 in 1938 and 2,401 last year.

A concerted move is under way to repeal the pension amendment this year.

The court decision that the full awards must be paid raises anew the question: Where's the money coming from?

The amendment to the state constitution set aside for pensions 85 per cent of all excise taxes, 85 per cent of all state and local liquor taxes, 10 per cent of inheritance taxes, and 10 per cent of incorporation fees.

Further Ruling Possible.

Altho these revenue sources have so far failed to keep up with the growing pension rolls, new court interpretations of the amendment may boost the income considerably. A Denver district judge has just ruled that the pension fund is entitled to 85 per cent of the property taxes collected on liquor stocks since Jan. 1, 1937, the effective date of the amendment. The state, counties, cities and schools have been getting this money from the levies on liquor stocks.

Nobody knows how much this would amount to, as many stores have lumped their liquor stocks in with other merchandise for taxation purposes. Some state officials estimate the pension fund, if the court decision is upheld in the supreme court, may collect as much as five million dollars in back taxes. Others feel it would not be more than a quarter of a million, and some think that the court order could not be made retroactive.

CREW UNLOADING PIPE FOR OIL LINE GUARDED AFTER UNION DISPUTE

Pontiac, Ill., Jan. 21 [Special].—Pipe for an oil line between Vandalia, Ill., and the Whiting, Ind., refineries was unloaded in Livingston county last week under guard of deputy sheriffs, state highway police, and private detectives. The line is being built for the Texas Empire Pipeline company, whose line in Shelby county was dynamited by vandals Jan. 13.

One car of pipe was unloaded without interference last week in Emington, but when the crew moved to Campus and started to unload another car, a labor union organizer, appeared and demanded that the crew join his union. The men refused, and later reported they were threatened.

Sheriff H. R. Davis was notified, and he placed guards over the crew. When the crew reached Reddick on the Livingston-Kankakee county line a second demand to join the union was made. Livingston county deputies were joined by Kankakee county deputies and the pipe was unloaded.

The 20 foot section blown out of the Texas company's line in Shelby county was replaced within 24 hours and movement of oil to the refinery was restored.

PUNISH LEADERS OF PRISON RIOT; 53 IN SOLITARY

Ionia, Mich., Jan. 21 (AP).—The 1,360 inmates of the Michigan reformatory went without their usual Sunday privileges today and 53 were in "solitary" as suspected instigators of Saturday's riot.

In a protest against a supper of chili, bread, and tea, the inmates nearly demolished mess hall and kitchen during an hour's turmoil, finally subdued with warning gunfire from guards.

Officials said the food was all right and the rioters protested "as an excuse to make trouble." Some were reported to have vainly tried to escape.

"I guess they just wanted to raise a little hell," said Capt. Laurence A. Lyon of the state police.

The 53 placed in solitary confinement will be questioned tomorrow.

They were arrested after they allegedly robbed a street car conductor of $19 at Oakley boulevard and Hill street. Pape said the money and changer were recovered in the girl's home. New York's Food News Paper

Sends Greetings to America's Canners

New York's Food News Paper is the one which maintains the famed Home Institute—a separate, fully-staffed department for research and daily reporting on home problems. It is equipped with laboratory kitchens which test and compare home cooking methods and manufacturers' products. Thousands of its tested recipes have become the text of a nationally-selling cook book ("America's Cook Book").

Last year this paper answered 250,000 letters and phone calls from readers who wanted extra food and fashion information. Measurements show the Herald Tribune devotes more editorial space to food and fashion reporting than any other paper in the city.

Morning? Evening? Any day—this is New York's home and woman-appeal paper, its top-notch consumer food news reporter. Food advertisers confirmed this when they added 55,000 lines of copy to this paper in 1939, bringing their total Herald Tribune space for the year to 407,902.

REP. LUND ENTERS G. O. P. RACE FOR LIEUT. GOVERNOR

Oscar Carlstrom Seeks Attorney General Post.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Representative Arnold L. Lund of Riverside announced last night that he will seek the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor. He asserted that in this position he could do most to reduce state spending by $28,500,000 a year, in line with his economy recommendations.

Former Judge Casey who seeks return to bench.

Lund, who is an attorney and the operator of several motion picture theaters, said the lieutenant governor, as presiding officer of the state senate, can do more to achieve economy than any other official. On his own initiative and at his own expense Lund has made a detailed study of state expenditures in recent months.

When he was unable to obtain necessary information for one phase of his inquiry any other way, he went to Springfield and employed clerks to count the number of state payrollers, finding that there are approximately 38,000 persons drawing state vouchers. This is an all-time record, Lund said.

Opposes Sales Tax on Food.

Lund's avowed aim in seeking to cut state spending is to remove the sales tax from food. Only 40 per cent of the $81,000,000 in receipts of the sales tax goes for relief, altho the tax was imposed for this purpose, he said. Prudent economy would not only lift the tax from edibles but also would eliminate recurring so-called "relief crises," he said.

During his first term in the Illinois house of representatives last year Lund introduced several bills to bring about the exemption of food from the sales tax. One bill received 64 votes while only 62 voted against it, but the failure of any Democrats to support the measure kept it from getting the necessary 77 votes.

"Scores of downstate leaders as well as many Cook county civic organizations have asked me to throw my hat in the ring," Lund said. "Until a few days ago I did not intend to run for a state office. I am doing so only because I sincerely believe I can help to do something to curb the tax wasting practices of the Horner administration."

Two Others Seeking Post.

Lund was graduated from Northwestern university with the degrees of bachelor of science and doctor of jurisprudence. He formerly published several suburban newspapers. He served as president of the Berwyn Chamber of Commerce and the Berwyn Bar association.

Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville, speaker of the house, and John V. Clinnin of Chicago, retired brigadier general of the National Guard and a member of the state civil service commission, have announced for the same post.

Oscar E. Carlstrom yesterday sent out letters which he said could be regarded as a reaffirmation of his announcement of last Sept. 14 that he would ask the Republican nomination for attorney general. He served two terms in that office, following the 1924 and 1932 elections.

In his letter Carlstrom said he had waived the desire to be governor of Illinois in order to render service to the entire G. O. P. ticket of 1940.

Seeks to Promote Harmony.

"I have kept on friendly relations with all groups of our party and believe I can be helpful in promoting a harmonious and united front so essential to victory," the former attorney general said. "A constant interest in younger Republican groups and such help as I could give them has, I believe, won for me their good will and friendship."

Carlstrom, whose home is in Aledo, Mercer county, has as announced opponents in the primary Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton, George F. Barrett of Chicago, Edward T. O'Connor of Peoria, and State Representative Clinton Searle of Rock Island.

Another announcement of interest was that of Edward B. Casey that he will seek to return to the Municipal court bench on the Republican ticket. Casey, who was the youngest judge on the bench and now is only 39 years old, received the highest rating of the Chicago Bar association of all sitting judges seeking reëlection in 1938.

"I will renew the fight to sweep the Municipal court clean of political domination which is thwarting every basic purpose of the people's court," Casey said.

An honor graduate of Notre Dame university, Casey was elected to fill a vacancy in 1931 and reëlected in 1932 for the full six year term.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Spokesmen for the Republican organizations of 10 midwestern states met in Chicago yesterday and discussed a suggestion that party leaders and officials from these and other states should unite in a giant rally early next spring for the general good of the party.

The conference, held in the Union League club, was a private one, but when it closed newspaper men were told that if the rally is held there will be neither commitments for or against any candidate nor any declaration of policy designed to aid or injure any possible candidate.

Recall Grass Roots Session.

While in some respects the gathering would resemble the Grass Roots meeting at Springfield, Ill., in 1935, it would not issue a declaration of principles such as was produced at the meeting five years ago. It could be expected, however, to provide a sounding board for stirring reiteration of Republican principles and resounding criticism of President Roosevelt and his administration.

When a definite understanding had been reached newspaper men were called into the conference room and Maj. A. K. Stiles, chairman of the Illinois Republican state central committee, made an informal statement for the entire group. Others joined in to answer questions.

"Feeling that the interests of the midwestern states are identical," said Stiles, "and that their problems are mutual, we decided to invite the Republican chairmen to meet for a preliminary discussion as to whether a meeting of the organization of these states is feasible and desirable.

Obtain Capehart's Help.

"Since Homer E. Capehart had a most successful cornfield rally at Washington, Ind., in 1938, it was decided to see if his services would be available. Mr. Capehart is here and has agreed to coöperate wholeheartedly. He has emphatically declined to run for public office and has announced that he will not do so. And the midwestern rally, if one is held, will not be in the interest of any candidate or candidates."

Questions brought out that, since some of the conferees came to Chicago without information about the purpose of the meeting, they wished to return to their states and consult with other leaders before indorsing the plan.

Won't Act on Hoover Plan.

Reporters asked numerous questions. The replies were in accord with Stiles' statement that party leaders including candidates, possible candidates and former candidates will be invited; that there will be no action taken on such subjects as the Hoover proposal that national convention delegates be uninstructed; that no action will be taken outside the field of the general welfare of the party.

In addition to Stiles and Capehart the conferees included eight state chairmen. They were Arch N. Bobbitt, Indiana; Harry B. Swan, Iowa; Walter S. Fees, Kansas; James F. Thomson, Michigan; Dr. R. C. Radabaugh, Minnesota; Barak T. Mattingly, Missouri; J. D. Coon, South Dakota, and F. L. Gullickson, Wisconsin. The tenth man was William Stern, national committeeman for North Dakota, where there is a vacancy in the state chairmanship.

Girl Whispers to Mother in Church: "I Shot Father"

Villanova, Pa., Jan. 21 (AP).—A 19 year old girl slipped into a church today, knelt by her mother's side and whispered: "I've just shot father." The girl, Frances Baran of Lower Merion, a high school senior, was jailed on an assault charge when her father, Joseph, 51, was found wounded in the face by a bullet from a revolver. He is expected to recover.

Girl, 13, Admits Shooting Father to Death in Home

Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—William H. Morrison, 64 years old, of Toronto, Ont., was shot to death at the home of his wife near here early today. Sheriff C. David Jones quoted Morrison's 13 year old daughter, Zelda, as saying she shot her father with a .22 caliber rifle because he had attacked her mother.

NATIONAL CANNERS!

AS another convention of the National Canners' Association gets under way, A&P takes a very personal pleasure in extending a warm welcome to every member of the canning industry.

Together, the canning industry and the chain food store industry have helped make the American larder the best-stocked in the world. We know that the canners, as well as ourselves, take justifiable pride in the knowledge that the American people have a greater variety of fine foods on their tables today than ever before in history.

It was not many years ago that people could eat only what grew in their immediate neighborhoods. Quantities and varieties of foods were limited. Most foods had to be used quickly or they would lose their freshness. Other foods, brought from afar, were expensive because of the small quantities sold and the high costs of distributing them.

All that is changed today. Now upwards of 350 DIFFERENT KINDS of delicious canned foods are available. Through the magic of canned preservation, they are obtainable ANY TIME of the year regardless of WHEN they were grown. Through efficient, modern mass distribution and selling, developed by the chain store industry, they are obtainable practically EVERYWHERE—regardless of WHERE they were grown.

Each new year has seen advancements in the methods of canning. And paralleling this progress have been the introduction of more efficient methods of no-waste, straight-line distribution. The mass distribution industry has brought the cost of food-handling and food-selling lower than ever before, thereby effecting even further savings on foods to the consumers. Through consistent advertising, chain food stores have carried to millions of people the message of wider varieties and more healthful combinations of all types of foods.

So efficiently have the canning industry and the modern mass distribution industries performed their jobs that today canned foods are an unquestioned and integral part of everyone's diet. That is a real tribute to what we have been able to do—effectively and economically.

Together our industries are making it possible for more people to live better, buy more foods, and enjoy the many kinds of meats and fruits and vegetables now wholesomely preserved through canning and distributed and sold through modern mass distributors.

The Canners' Convention is another manifestation of the progressive spirit of the canning industry—meeting to exchange ideas, and plan for the future.

Again, a hearty welcome to the National Canners. We hope that this convention will be the most successful ever.

Averaging more than 1,000,000 net paid, Chicago Tribune total daily circulation during December registered a gain of more than 141,000 over December, 1938.

This was a gain of 16.1%—and more than the total circulation of any daily newspaper in all but 22 of America's largest cities. It was a gain larger than the combined gains of all other Chicago daily newspapers.

Think of the additional buying power which this gain makes available to advertisers—and then consider that December was the 46th consecutive month in which Tribune total daily circulation registered an increase over the same month in the previous year.

Tribune circulation in Chicago and suburbs scored a gain of more than 122,000 over December, 1938. It was the 49th consecutive month in which Tribune city and suburban circulation showed a gain over the same month in the previous year.

Every day in the week, the Tribune sells more than 780,000* copies right in Chicago and suburbs. This is the equivalent of majority coverage of all the families in metropolitan Chicago. It is from 335,000 to 500,000 more copies than are sold by other Chicago newspapers in metropolitan Chicago.

When you advertise in the Tribune, you reach Chicago's largest constant audience. You make the most of your advertising expenditure today . . . and you build solidly for the future in a medium which has demonstrated its ability to widen the market for its own product.

To sell more in Chicago, build your advertising program around the Tribune. Rates per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in America.

2 MILLION FROST LOSS FEARED ON FLORIDA'S FARMS

Close Miami Schools

Miami, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP).—Public and parochial schools in this county and in adjoining Palm Beach county were ordered closed tomorrow because of wintry winds sweeping from the north. James T. Wilson, Dade [Miami] county school superintendent, said the prospect of 40 degree weather, lack of heating facilities in most schools and the prevalence of colds among children caused the order to close classrooms.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lakeland, Fla., Jan. 21.—A forecast of lower temperatures, clear skies and little wind for tonight and early tomorrow morning threatened frost damage of about $2,000,000 to Florida fruit and vegetable crops, according to estimates by agricultural and orchard experts.

This is the third night to chill Florida's $200,000,000 winter resort season, causing the wealthy to worry over their semitropical gardens, and the multitude of vacationists to shiver in tourist cabins, trailer camps, lightly heated rooming houses, and small hotels.

Chicagoans, after enduring subzero temperatures, may not be inclined to sympathize with the sunshine state, but Chicagoans are not without a direct interest in Florida's inclement weather. It will delay delivery of fresh vegetables to the northern market and may boost prices.

Maintain Vigil of Thermometers.

For the third night Florida farmers were maintaining a vigil over thermometers in their orchards and vegetable fields, ready to touch the torch to prepared piles of pine wood when the mercury reaches the danger point. During the two previous chilly nights little wood was burned and the damage was nominal. The temperature was above that forecast for tonight, however, and clouds and a breeze gave additional protection from frost.

The Florida method of fighting frost by warming the outdoors with fire was noted in a seven hour tour ending at 4 a. m. today and covering the 204 miles between Palm Beach and Lakeland. The route which the Tribune road car took skirted the southern shores of Lake Okeechobee thru the Everglades territory where 2,000 acres of beans and 3,000 acres of peas would be jeopardized by the 29 degree temperature forecast for tonight. Also in this power drained section there is a $1,200,000 crop of cabbages and a $1,000,000 crop of celery. In this territory at dawn today there was a light frost.

Beans, Peas May Be Lost.

"The frost might cause a heavy loss in beans and peas," said J. C. Townsend Jr. of Orlando, federal crop economist, "and it might cut the value of the celery from 10 to 15 per cent."

Northward into the central part of the state the route led into the hill and lake country that produces 75 per cent of Florida's $100,000,000 citrus crop.

E. S. Ellison, meteorologist of a joint federal and state horticultural protection service, said that the bonfires which growers had prepared can raise the temperature of an orchard as much as 8 or 10 degrees. He said that their entire value was in their warmth and not in their smoke, altho a common name for the method is called smudging. The same system is used on Florida truck farms.

"The citrus loss will not be heavy," said H. A. Marks, a federal specialist. "The fruit can withstand temperatures as low as 28 degrees."

A minimum of 26 degrees was forecast for Orlando, where the orange festival week opens tomorrow.

Two Worshipers Dive Into Icy River to Retrieve Cross

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Subfreezing temperatures did not deter two young worshipers from diving into the ice-caked Hudson river off The Battery today and retrieving a gold cross to complete epiphany ceremonies of the Greek Orthodox church. Ccharles Sottos, 19 years old, of Elizabeth, N. J., and Harry Marinos of Brooklyn, wearing only bathing trunks, leaped into the water while 1,500 warmly clad worshipers prayed. The cross was blessed and flung into the water by Bishop Arsenios, head of the Greek Orthodox church here. It symbolized purification of the waters of the world.

Judge to Make Traffic Law Violators Read the Statutes

Municipal Judge John Gutknecht, sitting in Traffic court, announced yesterday that beginning today he will use a new corrective in dealing with some traffic offenders. He will sentence them to read the complete city traffic regulations. Judge Gutknecht has ordered 1,500 copies of the code from Ludwig D. Schreiber, city clerk.

PETE NABS 2 GUN BANDIT, BUT COPS AREN'T GRATEFUL

It might have been expected that Peter Zamlis would have gotten a vote of thanks from the police for taking two guns away from a tipsy bandit who pointed them at him yesterday over his bar at 3956 Archer avenue. But the police put Zamlis in jail along with the robber.

Zamlis, who is 50 years old, captured Adelbert Abel, 28, of 4207 South Francisco avenue. Abel bought a few drinks in the tavern and then pulled an old single action pistol from his pocket. Zamlis reached across the bar and took it away. Abel reached in his other pocket, brought out a loaded and much more modern pistol, and was pointing it at Zamlis when the tavern owner took that one away from him, too.

When the Brighton Park police arrived they seized Abel, as Zamlis wanted them to. But then they asked Zamlis how he happened to be selling drinks to Abel at 9 a. m. on a Sunday, when saloons are prohibited from opening until noon. Pending a satisfactory answer, they took Zamlis along too.

Policemen's Association Officers Are Re-Elected

Officers of the Policemen's Benevolent association were reëlected yesterday at a meeting in the Skyline Athletic club, 188 West Randolph street. They are Thomas P. Heaphy, traffic detail, president; John J. Holmes, Gresham, vice president; Emmett Shaughnessy, Stockyards, recording secretary; Edward J. Carey, accident prevention, treasurer, and George Biederman, Sheffield, financial secretary. The association is composed of 6,800 active and retired policemen.

UNHURT IN CRASH, CAR KILLS HIM 15 MINUTES LATER

A motorist escaped injury in one accident last night only to be killed in another less than 15 minutes later.

The victim was identified thru his driver's license as Carlo Minicino, 44 years old, owner of a delicatessen at 5413 South Kedzie avenue. He lived at 5408 South Christiana avenue. Minicino was driving in Southwest highway, near 89th street, Oak Lawn, when his car skidded on a patch of ice and went into the ditch. He was shaken. With the aid of another motorist, he pulled the car from the ditch, and began tinkering on it to get it started again.

Then he started to walk across the highway. He was struck and killed by a car driven by William T. Lynch, 21, of 7230 Rhodes avenue.

Killed in Auto-Train Crash.

David Vanucha, 29 years old, a farmer, was killed yesterday near his home on Route 176 a mile and a half west of Lake Bluff in Lake county when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a North Shore electric train on the Mundelein branch line.

Arthur Peglow, 31, living at 22d street and Dickey avenue, west of North Chicago, who was driving the car, was probably fatally injured. He lost an arm in the accident. Peglow was taken to Condell Memorial hospital in Libertyville. He is an employé of the American Steel and Wire company.

Investigators for the Lake county coroner's office said that Peglow had turned into a small road leading from Route 176 to Vanucha's home. At the crossing a string of gravel cars apparently obstructed his view.

Injured at Rail Crossing.

William Korn, 31, of 2843 West 71st street, a chauffeur, was seriously injured in another train-automobile accident. His car was struck at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks at 71st street and Bell avenue by a freight train and carried 50 feet. Korn was taken to Holy Cross hospital.

A huge trailer truck crashed last night into a tavern at 4068 Archer avenue, when the driver, Joseph Oslatowicz, 5018 South Kedvale avenue, swerved to avoid hitting an automobile and the truck skidded on the icy pavement. Oslatowicz was injured slightly.

The body of an unidentified man killed by an automobile at Fullerton and Lotus avenues Saturday night was identified last night as that of Alexander Jablonowski, 60 years old, 2146 North Marmora avenue. The automobile driver was Raymond Pryor, 2202 Byron street.

Trucker Dies of Injuries.

E. J. Ryan, 29 years old, of Joplin, Mo., a shipper, died last night in St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, of injuries suffered Friday when his truck, loaded with Florida fruit, collided with an automobile at Cicero avenue and Lincoln highway, Matteson. Ryan was sleeping at the time while his helper, William Rausch, also of Joplin, drove. The automobile driver was Fred Wilkinson of North Liberty, Ia. He was injured.

Frank McGriff, 36 years old, colored, of 4318 Calumet avenue, died in county hospital of injuries suffered Jan. 12 when he fell from a truck into the path of an automobile which ran over him. The accident occurred at Michigan avenue and 43d street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 51 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 39 were killed in Chicago, where 1,237 were injured in the same period.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

CRISIS IN THE SOCIALISTIC EXPERIMENT.

In the house debate on the appropriation for the Tennessee Valley authority this week it was brought out that the plan is to expand this experiment in socialism greatly. The program calls for the building of many additional dams and the transfer of large amounts of additional property to public ownership.

What this means, among other things, is that a steadily reducing amount of property in the TVA area is to be subject to the taxes which go to pay for the maintenance of schools and the ordinary functions of government. As there is no corresponding reduction in the needs for public service the consequence must be that taxes on private property and business which remain in private hands are going higher and higher.

Any one who has looked into the municipal finances in the wealthy suburbs of Chicago will be impressed with the large share of the revenues which comes from the utilities. If this source of taxes was suddenly cut off and if in addition a considerable amount of real estate of the community became tax free the effect upon the communities would be calamitous. How much more devastating must be the elimination of utilities and of large land holdings from the tax rolls as a result of TVA in the poor sections of the south. Gov. Cooper of Tennessee recently reported that some of the counties of his state have lost half of their revenues as a result of the flooding of large stretches of land for the TVA dams and the elimination of the income formerly received from privately owned utilities.

The aggregate annual loss of revenue since TVA acquired 90 per cent of the electric power business of Tennessee is 3 million 500 thousand dollars. The only offset to this is a contribution of 750 thousand dollars a year, which TVA has been making to the local governments. Senator Norris, the father of TVA, has agreed to have the contribution raised to 1 million 500 thousand dollars. But this, Tennessee taxpayers say, is so inadequate that a severe reduction in the functions of government will be forced, and possibly defaults on local bonds cannot be avoided.

But the Tennessee valley is not the only region affected by the reduction in public revenues as a result of the experiments in socialism under the Roosevelt administration. Another of the New Deal activities will reduce the revenues of local governments in Chicago by 450 thousand dollars, it was brought out early this week. The Federal Housing authority sent a check for 39 thousand dollars to the city treasurer as a contribution for services in lieu of taxes on the Jane Addams, Julia Lathrop, and Trumbull Park housing developments.

As a condition for allotting federal funds for housing to Illinois the federal government insisted that the projects should enjoy tax exemption and be permitted to pay only 5 per cent of the rentals to the city as compensation for schools, police and fire protection, and the great variety of other services rendered by our local governments. It has been estimated that if the three housing projects were privately owned the tax bill would be 494 thousand dollars. Other taxpayers will have to pay 450 thousand dollars more because only a token payment is made on these housing developments.

The three projects which have been given this exceptional treatment are not the end. Plans for another unit of this tax exempt housing program on the north side are well developed. And there will be others. The freeing of property from taxation is not yet a serious problem in our local governmental finances, but it is only a question of time unless the movement is stopped. The piecemeal transfer over to socialism can go pretty far before it attracts much attention. The critical point has been reached only in the Tennessee valley, but the trend is country-wide.

PACKERS' PROFITS.

Nineteen thirty-nine was a comparatively profitable year for the meat packers. The four leading companies—Swift, Armour, Wilson, and Cudahy, which do 50 or 60 per cent of the business—had a total profit of 21½ million dollars, compared with a combined net income of 3 million dollars in 1938. Last year was the packers' best since 1936, when the four leaders made 28 million dollars.

The scale of operations considered, these are astonishingly small figures. The 21½ million of net income in 1939 was realized after processing 1 billion 900 million dollars of product. That is a litte more than 1 cent of net out of each dollar of gross—and that in a year of betterment.

The Securities and Exchange commission has published some interesting figures on the big packers for the years 1935, 1936, and 1937. Their assets are over 800 million dollars. Their sales annually are around the 2 billion mark. In their best recent year their earnings ran to only 28 million. That meant that they had to sell $100 worth of meat to make $1.40. In 1937, when their sales volume was at the peak of recent years, they earned 90 cents on each $100 of sales.

Many will ask whether the low rate of profit may not be due to large salaries to the insiders. The facts about officers' and directors' salaries for 1935, 1936, and 1937 are shown in the SEC report, and there is no reason to believe that there has been any material change since then. The total compensation of all officers and directors of the four companies combined was 2 million 174 thousand in 1937, the year of their highest remuneration. This is equal to 1/10 of 1 per cent of sales and about 1 per cent of the aggregate pay rolls. If all the officers and directors worked for nothing, the profit in the best year would have been about 1½ per cent of sales.

This is a lower rate of return than is to be found in any important industry. Of 17 industries studied by the SEC and reported upon in bulletins made generally available every other one had higher average profits. No new industry could possibly be financed which offered a profit no greater than 1 per cent—the 1 per cent that the packers earn!

Meat packing is one of our most essential industries. The great concerns in it buy all the live stock the farmers want to sell. They process it quickly and sell it for what the consumer is willing to pay. So great is the competition that they earn even in good years a return which would not be tolerated in other lines.

JAPAN AND GREAT BRITAIN.

Several members of the senate foreign relations committee have received a memorandum of terms of a treaty represented as a new agreement between Great Britain and Japan harmonizing their interests in China. The purported conciliation has aroused curiosity without greater credulity than the circumstances would justify. It is further reported that the American state department has been given the memorandum but has not been informed by either the British or Japanese government.

Investigation, which the senators say will be made, may prove that the story is without substance. It is not without plausibility, altho if it were true and concealed from the American government or even by the American government, an element of bad faith would enter, accusing either London or Washington of duplicity.

Both Great Britain and Japan have excellent reasons for compromising their difficulties, the British even more than the Japanese. Whatever the latter want to call their operations in China, both countries are deeply involved in wars. They were formerly allied with less cause for not being enemies than they have now. What interests the American senators is the possibility that the United States will be fronting for occidental imperialism in China when the imperialists themselves have taken to cover.

This country has been out in front before. Mr. Stimson was deserted in Manchuria. The Europeans threw Mr. Roosevelt's Brussels conference down before it got started. That is not to be regretted. The relations of the United States and Japan become an acute issue this month when the trade treaty expires. What is needed is some confidence that other fellows' chestnuts are not in the fire. America has no white man's burden in the far east. The American fleet is not based on Singapore—yet.

TOWARD A NAZI AMERICA.

In its annual report the United States forest service recommends that it be given authority to regulate lumbering on privately owned land. These forests are described as "an empire of such social and economic importance that we no longer can afford to ignore it or leave it unmanaged without serious consequences for the entire nation." The report also recommends the acquisition of additional forests by government.

Thus the Nazification of this country proceeds. The private citizen is presumed to be a fool and a wastrel and must be restrained from dissipating his own assets by an all wise government.

If some owners of forest land are mismanaging their properties to the public, as well their own, injury, and if the damage is so serious that legislation is required, the matter might well be left to the states for appropriate action. The diversity of the timber resources of the country argues against national management and in favor of state supervision, if any is needed.

No such simple and relatively inexpensive remedy will satisfy the burocrats. They want to recruit new armies of job holders to bedevil the citizen from afar and tell him how to conduct his business. The national interest is assumed to be not the sum of private interests, but something which exists independently, over and above the citizen. Hitler has the same idea. He, too, has created a fictitious national interest which he uses as the justification for his all powerful burocracy and for all his denials of freedom to his subjects.

We are going the same way in this country. The slogan in Washington is not yet "Blood and Soil," but so far as the trend and results are concerned it might as well be.

Editorial of the Day

AN ILL-FATED BRITISH SWAP.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

As word comes that three British submarines have been sunk by the Germans near Helgoland, Britons must be grieving again over the bit of half century old muddling that gave the strategically invaluable island to the reich. African spoils were the powers' glittering goal in 1890. British diplomats thought they were executing a master stroke when they got the vast territory of Uganda from Germany in exchange for the seemingly worthless island, 28 miles off the German coast. It was soon disclosed who got the better of the deal when the Germans built powerful fortifications there, which did great damage during the world war. Now rebuilt, they are the base for attacks on England's coast.

And how did Britain get Helgoland in the first place? Here is another instance of power politics. It had belonged to Denmark for centuries, and Denmark tried to be neutral in the Napoleonic wars. Britain demanded surrender of the Danish fleet in 1809, lest Napoleon seize it. When the Danes refused, they found themselves at war with England, and Helgoland became British booty.

Britons may now decide it would have been better to let neutral Denmark keep the island.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

LINCOLN AND LITERATURE.

The reading of Keats' verses, "On Death," by the Young Abe of the New Salem era in the play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," has no factual basis. It is unlikely that this poem would have come to the attention of a backwoods schoolteacher in the 1830s. Robert E. Sherwood, the author of Raymond Massey's play, says on this point:

"There is no record of Lincoln's having read this poem. It is in keeping, however, with his taste in verse. He naturally had a great fondness for the somber."

His favorite poem was "Oh, Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud?" by William Knox [1789-1825]. It was also the favorite of many other plain Americans of his generation and the next.

The quotation from "Pickwick Papers," by Bowling Green in Scene III. is a slight anachronism. This scene is dated in 1835, and publication of "Pickwick Papers" in England did not begin until 1836. Mr. Sherwood admits this in his notes to the play. He states that Joshua Speed's reference to Lincoln's absorption in "Hamlet," in the same scene, is justified:

"Lincoln read the tragedies of Shakespeare with consuming interest at this time, and memorized long passages. He also read Voltaire, and Tom Paine's 'Age of Reason,' and Constantine Volney's 'Ruins,' a strange diet for a frontier postmaster, altho not so strange when you know what he was to be."

When Lincoln was President, he wrote to the Shakespearean actor, James H. Hackett:

"For one of my age I have seen very little of the drama. The first presentation of Falstaff I ever saw was yours here. . . . Some of Shakespeare's plays I have never read; while others I have gone over perhaps as frequently as any unprofessional reader. Among the latter are 'Lear,' 'Richard III.,' 'Henry VIII.,' 'Hamlet,' and especially 'Macbeth.' I think nothing equals 'Macbeth.'"

SONNET TO A DENTIST'S CHAIR.

Grim torturer, yet not the instrument
Of pain, you hold my unsuspecting head,
Soft cushioned, while on inquisition bent.
Bright polished implements before me spread,
A bulb that gives a blast of tropic air—
And then the dread command, "Let's have a look."
Yet not in grudge, I write this, dental chair,
For sometimes years have proved a cruel rack
Of days, as unrelenting in their grief
As you are now. And tho your moments lack
Some elements of joy, you bring relief;
For when with graceful slowness, you descend,
I know my sufferings are at an end.

An Idea for Bobby Hutchins.

At the University of Chicago and Northwestern university, there are, more or less, beautiful young ladies in great numbers and a lesser number of young men lacking in that delicate refinement which is the glory of the distaff contingent.

My idea is a merger of the two schools which would permit segregating the feminine pupils at the University of Chicago and the rough boys at Northwestern. The motivating impulse is to make life more endurable for the University of Chicago faculty, because I am convinced that the professors would work better in the perfumed atmosphere of "Toujours l'Amour" or "Shocking" than in the aroma of sweat, arnica and witch hazel of the fieldhouse.

At Northwestern the boys could play football, or break their young necks in any seemly manner, without the distraction of co-eds; with the result that, relieved from time wasting "dates," they would study more and rejoice the hearts of the professors. As it stands now, what with "dates" and athletics, the boys have no time to spare for mental polishing.

The idea is a "natural." The Skipper.

A Myth from Iron Mountain, Mich.

And then there's Oscar, whose pet was a woodchuck. When it got to stealing his chickens, he swore he'd fix it. The next time he caught his pet, he tied a dynamite cap to its tail and lighted the fuse. The varmint bit and scratched furiously. Alarmed, Oscar turned and ran for the house. Panting, he tore into the kitchen, slamming the door behind him. The angry woodchuck crawled under the porch. And now Oscar has a new porch, but no woodchuck. Dorsey.

LINES TO A BOOK.

If I tire of reading you,
Don't feel hurt, for there is one
Who will gladly turn your pages
'Ere she flies into the sun.
"Wind" they call her; don't you see her
Coming now across the hill?
Here! Upon the grass I'll place you
And we'll wait—be very still.

See, was I not right, vain volume?
She inserts a dainty finger
'Neath each leaf and slides it over
Though she has not long to linger.
Graciously she hears your story,
Then because I raise my head,
She is off above the hilltop
Telling clouds of what she read.

On the Trail of the "Bulldog."

"Bulldog" editions were old stuff when I was a cub in New York in 1901 and Martin Green, star makeup man on the Evening Journal, put me thru my paces getting them out. He rattled on at a great rate, talking about how the World inaugurated them.

But dig farther back in your ancient newspaper lore and have some one explain the origin and meaning of "hell box." I believe it dates back to Ben Franklin. Paul S. Warden.

Footnote to History of Niles Center.

A former resident of Niles Center, now proudly living in a new home in Deerfield, came back one day to play bridge with cronies. In a lull between bidding the movement to change the village's name was discussed. When she learned that Ridgeview was favored, she scoffed and said, "Why, there isn't a ridge in the whole town."

"Have you seen any deer in Deerfield?" asked her hostess. Bernice Herman.

CHICKENPOX CONTAGIOUS BUT USUALLY MILD.

CHICKENPOX—which goes under various names—is one of our common infectious maladies. Just at this time, many parts of the country are facing a widespread appearance of this difficulty.

How is it disseminated? Altho the lesions appear on the skin, it is a disease of the entire body. It may be contracted from one who is ill—by one who is susceptible—thru droplets of spray coming from the nasal passages or the throat. Thus coughing or even talking may convey the infection. The patient's hands, clothing, or bedside utensils also may carry the virus.

The typical attack comes on about two weeks after exposure and a sufferer can scatter the causative element for at least 24 hours before the outbreak is noted. Often the first hint of trouble is the presence of two or three reddish spots on the trunk. Some will exhibit fever, fretfulness, and lack of appetite; but when the dermal manifestations are revealed all general symptoms [such as headache, pain in the back and legs, and an occasional vomiting spell] will vanish. A few will complain of a mild sore throat and a badly furred tongue, but rarely will the temperature rise above 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

The main characteristic of the eruption is that it keeps erupting. Beginning on the front [chest and abdomen], later on the back, then on the inner sides of the thighs—it may eventually involve the face and the scalp. After two or three days one can see drying pustules and, at the same time, small, fresh, new blebs [vesicles] which may be no larger than a pinhead. At first the fluid contained within them is clear, later becoming turbid and cream to brownish in shade. The early stage has been likened to glistening drops of glycerin on the skin surface.

Within a day or so the scabs begin to form. The scales usually fall shortly thereafter, leaving a pinkish area about the size of the original papule. The duration of the illness varies from 10 to 21 days—depending upon its severity.

Complications seldom ensue. If the child is hoarse or unable to speak above a whisper, an investigation may disclose that the larynx is involved and, not infrequently, we will encounter mild signs of bronchitis. If bacteria enter the picture we may look for multiple boils or abscesses, or even such an exhausting disorder as erysipelas. About the second week it is well to examine the urine, as now and then the kidneys will be affected. But with bed rest and a light diet there is little danger of permanent damage. Because some secondary invasion may be experienced, it is wise to keep the youngster in bed. No playmate should be allowed to enter the room and only those adults who have had chickenpox should care for the victim.

Hunger is usually not a serious problem. Appetite is satisfied with a diet consisting of fruit juices, soft eggs, toast, milk, and cereals. As a precaution against an outside contamination, the patient should be bathed with soap and water daily and then with boric acid solution. If there is an inclination to scratch it is well to employ a dusting powder containing zinc oxide and boric acid. It may be advisable to restrain young children by supplying them with mittens to prevent "digging."

Curiously enough, the dried crusts do not seem to be able to spread the disease. On the other hand, it is wise to keep the patient from school until healing is complete. In this connection, particular attention should be given to the scalp. After the patient has recovered—the sheets, pillow cases, etc., should be boiled, the walls and the furniture washed with soap and water, and the room aired thoroly. Disinfection is unnecessary.

We are dealing with an ailment which closely resembles smallpox. But the lesions are smaller, less numerous, and look as tho they had been pasted on the epidermis rather than proceeding from it. Permanent scars should not occur. It is only when scratching introduces other organisms that this untoward result may be anticipated. A pit upon the face is an unwelcome adornment.

BURP THE BABY.

B. B. writes:

1. Is it necessary to make a baby belch after everything he takes, including water?

2. During the nursing period, what fresh fruits and vegetables may a mother eat without harm to the baby?

REPLY.

1. Yes—advisable. If much air is swallowed, vomiting may result if this procedure is omitted.

2. Practically no restrictions.

GRAY SKIN.

M. S. writes: What causes a young person's skin to turn dark gray?

REPLY.

The use of the salts of silver—as antiseptics—in the nose or throat may lead to the deposit of metallic particles in the skin. The result is a grayish appearance. A blue-gray cast is due to insufficient oxygen in the circulation. If the skin and the tongue are of the same shade, omit late suppers, etc.—especially the etc.

LOW THYROID FUNCTION.

L. E. B. writes:

1. Does loss of function on the part of the thyroid gland result in obesity or in emaciation?

2. Do low blood pressure and heavy, swollen features necessarily accompany this condition?

1. Obesity.
2. Not necessarily—but usually.

REMOVING MOLES.

A. S. writes: Is there any way to get rid of beauty marks on the face?

REPLY.

A skin specialist should decide whether radium, X-ray, the electric needle, carbon dioxide snow, or surgery should be employed. The important thing is to avoid a scar.

PORK WORM DISEASE.

D. B. writes: What are the symptoms of trichinosis?

REPLY.

Fever, abdominal distress, nausea, and vomiting may be present. Later, painful and swollen muscles, with puffing about the eyes, will be observed.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES.—Will 1940 be marked by Argentina's return to the depleted ranks of the countries whose governments are democratic in fact and not merely by courtesy? That is the root question underlying the plot and counterplot of the party groups disputing leadership in many of the provinces. Cloaked as they are by high sounding but almost meaningless formulas, the real points at issue are support, semisupport, or opposition to President Roberto M. Ortiz's campaign for free elections.

For the National Democrats, or Conservatives, the issue is one of life and death. In the opinion of many neutral observers, free elections will sound the death knell of that party. They point to its record, to the fact that it has held a continuous grip on the country for the best part of 90 years, broken only by the rise to power of the Radical party under Irigoyen in 1916 following passage of the secret voting law and until the Radical overthrow in 1930.

After a period of dictatorship under Gen. Uriburu, constitutional government was reëstablished in 1932. It has been charged that the elections were manipulated by the Conservative bosses to insure victory for that party even in those districts which were overwhelmingly Radical.

Thus the Conservatives—of whom it has been said that 250 "patrician" families exercise despotic control—regained power and have since retained it, altho compelled to share it with a sprinkling of anti-Irigoyenist Radicals.

All seemed plain sailing for an indefinite period of National Democrat rule until President Ortiz announced his intention of living up to his election pledges. He first caused mild consternation by warning the government of the province of San Juan to conduct a clean contest there. His warning was disregarded, possibly under the belief that it was merely a gesture, with the result that Ortiz promptly canceled the election and appointed a federal interventor.

The province of Santiago del Estero fared no better. A corrupt oligarchy was thrown out and an intervention appointed.

By this time the Conservative leaders were greatly worried, but apparently believed they could get away with it in Catamarca on the strength of Dr. Castillo, vice president of the republic, being a prominent Catamarcan Conservative.

They were wrong again. The president telegrapned the governor demanding cancellation of certain election preparations. The governor's reply, written in a tone of injured innocence, was publicly commended by Vice President Castillo. This case awaits final settlement, but in the meantime it has caused a virtual severance of relations between the Conservative leaders and the president.

The outcome is difficult to visualize. Defiance from the Conservatives may cause President Ortiz to join forces with the opposition Radicals. In such case it is more than probable that the Conservative party's sun may set for good, and it may be that prudence will dictate a compromise with the president.

CONTRACT PURCHASE.

Chicago, Jan. 18 [Legal Friend of the People].—Three months ago I purchased under contract 20 acres of ground three miles outside the city, agreeing to pay and signing six notes for $40 each. I have paid to date $120 and now want to build a house on the property. The real estate people tell me if I will pay $130 more they will give me a deed to one acre, but that there is a mortgage on the property that was not mentioned to me when contract for purchase was made.

1. Under these conditions can they give me a clear title to any portion of the property?

2. What protection would I have in the event they failed to pay off the mortgage?

3. Should I ask for a refund of money paid or go on paying?

4. Can they hold me to the contract? I don't want to build a house and improve the property and take a chance of losing it. E. A. T.

1. Not unless the mortgage holder can be persuaded to execute a partial release.

2. Substantially none. You would be in the position of having purchased from a party who does not have a good title to convey.

3. The time to have raised the point was at the start. Since you have already made some payments, it is awkward to withdraw. Do you have anything to show the vendor will not be ready to give you a clear title when you have completed?

4. Yes, as far as the bare facts stated are concerned. It is nearly always advisable for a purchaser of real estate to employ an attorney thruout and we advise you to do so now. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 18 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. A wife dies leaving no will—a home paid for in her name, [2] also has a bank account in her name. What steps should husband take? E. C.

1. In general, probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title, but if you do not expect to sell within seven years and the value is comparatively small, you might ultimately find a purchaser who would be willing to waive the requirements.

2. The bank is the best source of information as to whether they would be willing to waive probate.

A CHILLY DAY.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Your chart of low temperatures recorded at one time or another, showed a record low of 90.4 degrees below zero at Verhoyansk, Siberia, in 1892. Our own Alaska has recorded an even lower temperature, but nobody knows, or ever will know, just how low it was or on what date it occurred. It happened this way:

In 1913 Archdeacon Hudson Stuck led a party of four to the summit of Mount McKinley, following the route up the northeast ridge first described by Dr. Frederick A. Cook in 1906. At an altitude something over 15,000 feet, where he left the ridge to go out on McKinley's vast median glacier, he left a minimum thermometer.

In 1932, Harry Liek [now superintendent of Mount McKinley National park] climbed McKinley with three companions and found the thermometer. It was calibrated to 90 degrees below zero. [A minimum thermometer is an alcohol thermometer with a tiny glass float in the liquid. When the temperature goes down the meniscus of the fluid pulls the float along, but when the temperature rises, the float remains stationary.] The float in this instrument had been pulled clear into the bulb; by interpolation its reading was 100 degrees below zero, but nobody can tell how much lower it might have gone. All we can tell is that sometime between 1913 and 1932, the temperature on the upper slopes of Mount McKinley was down to 100 degrees below zero or lower.

ON NEWS VALUES.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—I have recently moved to Chicago from a city of approximately 70,000 inhabitants. The tall buildings and throngs of people have not awed me in the least, but there is one thing I can't seem to get. It seems that we see in every daily paper [on close inspection] an article telling us of the death or serious injury of one or a group of people in an auto accident. Back home when anything of this nature occurs large black headlines slap us in the face and leave a mark, for a time at least.

What's the answer? Are small town lives more valuable, or is the devotion of front page space to loss of local life considered "corny" in the big city?

When is this great state going to give its heroes of the highways the honest protection of civil service, and their wives and children the decent, humane protection of a pension fund? H. Z.

STIMULANT TO BUILDING.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Here is an idea which, if put into operation, will give thousands of workers in the building trades jobs:

Pay full union wages, two-thirds in cash and one-third in second mortgage bonds. R. S. TOTH.

RACKETS COMPARED.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—If State's Attorney Courtney paid one-half as much attention to clearing up the union rackets as he does to clearing up the bookie racket, what a grand town this would be.

SILVER.

A WAY TO DISCOURAGE SPEEDING.

Crystal Lake, Ill., Jan. 10.—Every motorist should be compelled by law to carry a speedometer on top of his car, connected with the speedometer inside the car, visible from front and rear with legible numerals, and lighted up at night. This might be improved by a change of color to indicate various degrees of speed.

The moment he exceeded the speed limit the driver would find himself saying, "I hope nobody was looking at my speedometer."

Even the hardened criminal, brave as he thinks he is, doesn't perform his lawlessness in the open. He wouldn't take a chance of incriminating himself before the entire public. As it stands now, the motorist, in a good many cases, takes a chance that he can talk himself out of his offense, that he can exert his influence—if he happens to have any—or buy himself off cheaply, or much better, because of habitual and continual violation by others, he won't even be noticed.

PAUL FREDERICK.

O. K. THREE CHEERS.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—This is the time of the year when sickness is at its peak, but no one hears a word of praise to either doctor or nurse. Let's stand up and cheer for these life savers, who do more for us than presidents, dictators, politicians, etc. Long may they reign.

THEODORE J. THEODORE.

How Our States Got Their Names

13. IOWA.

State historians say that the derivation and original meaning of "Iowa" are lost somewhere in the misty past. They say the state and the Iowa river, however, were named after a tribe of Indians who once inhabited the region. Some think it means "beautiful," or "beautiful land." Others agree that the probable meaning is "this is the place." The present form of the name may first be found in a gazetteer published in 1804. Iowa became a state Dec. 28, 1846.

Iowa state seal. It includes sheaf and field of wheat, farming tools, lead furnace and pig lead, soldier standing in front of plow bearing flag and liberty cap, Mississippi river in rear, and flying scroll bearing motto: "Our Liberties We Prize and Our Rights We Will Maintain."

Iowa is known as the Hawkeye state and as the Land of the Rolling Prairie. Some sources say the first name came from Chief Hawkeye, an Indian, feared by the early settlers. Others say it was the nickname of an early Iowa newspaper publisher. The Iowa motto is "Our Liberties We Prize and Our Rights We Will Maintain." The state song is "Iowa," the flower the wild rose, and the bird the eastern goldfinch.

In the recent article on Delaware, Peter Minuit, first governor of the New Netherlands colony, who later founded New Sweden near the present site of Wilmington, Del., was called a Swede. He was born in Prussia of Dutch ancestry.

84 MBS STATIONS TAKE OVER 2 BIG PROGRAMS TODAY

Begin Airing Orphan Annie and The Carters.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Mutual Broadcasting system, which began its fourth year of coast-to-coast operations with the dawn of 1940, today will begin offering two important new sponsored features over 84 stations of the radio network. The programs, both serial dramatic presentations, The Carters of Elm Street and Little Orphan Annie, are to be heard Mondays thru Fridays at 11:45 a. m. for the Carters and 5:45 p. m. for Annie.

Arrangements for these extensive broadcasts were completed after Mutual's recent announcement of an expanded plan of operations for the next five years. This broadened base was assured when 7 independent broadcasting companies, representing 57 of Mutual's 124 stations, pledged themselves to underwrite the financial operations of the network thru 1944. Capital stock of the network is being distributed to these member stations.

From Tri ne Comic Strip.

Little Orphan Annie, an adaptation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE comic strip, has been broadcast over W-G-N since 1930. In recent years it has been produced in NBC studios. Starting today it returns to W-G-N studios whence it will be transmitted to 83 other Mutual stations. Pierre André continues as the Little Orphan Annie announcer and also returns to W-G-N as a staff announcer today. The Carters of Elm S et has been an NBC feature for two years.

Several other W-G-N features will be presented at new times, starting today. Three programs will be advanced 15 minutes. The programs and their new times: The Life of Mary Sothern, a dramatic serial, at 11 a. m.; Quin Ryan's News Commentary at 11:15 a. m., and the popular dramatic story, Painted Dreams, at 11:30 a. m. Ryan's broadcast is aired Mondays thru Saturdays; the other two, Mondays thru Fridays.

"Painted Dreams" has been a W-G-N feature for 10 years. It is written by Kay Chase. Starting today Gordon Hughes, who also produces "Midstream" at WMAQ, will direct "Painted Dreams."

Quin Ryan on this morning's news commentary will interview Anita Louise, movie star. The Life of Mary Sothern, heard for three years on W-G-N, has renewed its contract for another extended run.

To Air Broadcast Game.

Another new feature, an audience participation game entitled "Broadcast," is to make its first appearance over W-G-N and a Mutual network Monday, Feb. 19, at 8 p. m. Radio listeners will be invited to identify notables, places or events from clews presented on the air. These will take the form of impersonations, quotations, and bits of songs. They will be presented by a company including E Elson, Bill Anson, Harold Stokes, and the Dance orchestra.

A first prize of $100 in cash will be awarded for the best solutions of the puzzlers and $400 in additional cash prizes will be distributed.

Other additions to Mutual network sponsored programs include the morning series presenting Arthur Godfrey and an extension of the Wallace "Keep Fit to Music" exercise program, long a favorite on W-G-N, to other stations of the network.

Good morning!

Since we are, apparently, continuously to have prison melodramas with us, it would be nice if they could all be as interesting and well done as is "The Big Guy."

While the film runs true to form as to jail life, breaks, etc., the story has an unusual quirk.

The "big guy" is captain of the yard guards. He has been a loyal and efficient public servant for 20 years and, as the picture opens, thinks he is about to have a break, for he has been temporarily appointed warden. . . . Then comes the news that the job is ONLY temporary to disappoint his heart and that of his devoted wife, who has already started to move them into the warden's cottage. . . .

Stolen funds come into Whitlock's hands. . . . He persuades himself and his wife that he has a right to keep them. Then——he sees an innocent boy go on trial for murder—a charge which hinges on a paper in which the money had been wrapped. . . . By this time Whitlock IS the warden, the position having been handed him for an act of bravery performed just before he gets the cash. . . .

What does Whitlock do? I'll let the picture answer that question for you, but I assure you that he proves himself to be, really, a big guy. . . .

Victor McLaglen does a very fine job as Whitlock. Jackie Cooper is also excellent. I was pleased with all the players and thought the direction adroit.

See you tomorrow!

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 21.—Her friends are urging Olivia De Havilland to wed Tim Durant, millionaire, rather than Jimmy Stewart, on the grounds that it would be folly to wed an actor. Both are nice guys. . . . Billie Burke, offered $2,000 a week for personal appearance in vaude, has turned them all down because she wants to be with her daughter, Patricia Ziegfeld Stevenson, when Sir Stork arrives.

Charlie Chaplin's flicker will be finished in three weeks. It appears to be the best thing he's ever done. The picture opens on Chaplin as a shell-shocked soldier in the Berlin ghetto who is tossed into a concentration camp. Hitler, hunting with friends near by, strays from his party at the same time that Charlie escapes from the concentration camp. Chaplin is mistaken for Hitler and you can imagine what happens from then on. Jack Oakie, as Mussolini, in the Chaplin film, wins a new lease on stardom. He's great; explains that in all two scenes Chaplin throws the laugh lines to him.

Franchot Tone is wooing "Puk" Harris, New York model. She's Swedish and a looker. . . . Luise Rainer's most persistent suitor is a biggie in the British government; he is pulling strings at Washington, D. C., so that her family can come to this country from Europe. . . . Did Jock Whitney, in addition to the aforementioned three million dollar settlement, also give "Liz" the Virginia farm? . . . Lupe Velez is showing the town to Peter Calderone. He's the Zanuck of Mexican producers. . . . Jinx Falkenberg, one of the more beauteous models, who was supposed to have rifted with Bob Taplinger, spent 20 minutes long distance phoning him from the Ambassador Pump room at Chicago.

Connie Bennett's leading man, Richard Ainsley, has supplanted Gilbert Roland. . . . David O. Selznick, despite the success of "Gone with the Wind," tells friends he'll never attempt anything so pretentious again; claims it took 10 years off his life. . . . Hal Roach Jr. and Dolly Hunt a twosome. . . . Randy Scott with Natalie Draper at the Connie Moore-Cary Grant joint birthday celebration. There were pictures of both on the birthday cake. . . . Gloria Vanderbilt and her sister here after a motor trip cross-country in one of the cheaper cars. . . . Chico Marx, with 13 long shots at Santa Anita in a row, has won a bundle of dough.

Miriam Hopkins and Anatole Litvak talking reconciliation. . . . Bill Lundigan with Marjorie Chapman. . . . John Farrow, after his next flicker, will enlist with the Canadian troops. After the war, he becomes an American citizen. . . . Macoco, Argentine millionaire, and Kay Williams talking marriage.

Garson Kanin is dividing his dates between Judith Anderson and Margot Stevenson. . . . The Ann Sheridan-George Brent twosome is busting all speed records. . . . Sam Goldwyn, having paid $100,000 for "The Little Foxes," now is debating whether or not to use Tallulah Bankhead in it. . . . June Lang with Orchestra Leader Garwood Van. . . . Billy Wilkerson's Ciro restaurant, soon to open, set him back $90,000 in alterations. The club even will have a motion picture booth and screening room. Anybody who spends that much money on a Hollywood night club is silly. . . . In response to squawks, Irene Rich hereafter will be presented as a matron, rather than an ingénue over the radio lanes. . . . Jeffrey Lynn long distance calling Doris Carson. . . . The Douglas Fairbanks Jr. baby will be an April arrival. . . . Edgar Bergen's former honey, Kay Germaine, will become Mrs. Jack Carson.

Cold Speeds Up Departures to Winter Resorts

BY JUDITH CASS.

"DO hurry down. Our weather is slightly fickle, but we don't have blizzards and subzero weather. In fact, it's getting warmer by the minute," wires a friend in Palm Beach, Fla. So is our weather, we might reply, and our subzero waves aren't any more uncomfortable than near freezing weather is in Florida. But just the same, virtually every one who can is making plans to go where the temperature is higher than it has been hereabouts recently.

The sight of clothes for southern wear in shop windows is positively maddening to every woman; to those who have to stay at home because they don't need the colorful frocks and accessories, and to those who are going away because they can't buy all they think they will need. No woman ever was heard to say, "I have everything I need in the way of clothes," was she?

Jekyll Island Club Starts Season Feb. 1.

From Brunswick, Ga., comes word that the fashionable Jekyll Island club, off Brunswick, will open its 53d season on Feb. 1 with its annual four day invitation golf tournament. The players compete for the Morgan cup, placed in competition by J. Pierpont Morgan. Already more than 20 entries have been received for the event, which was won last year by Robert A. Gardner of Lake Forest.

Mr. Gardner is one of the committee in charge of the tournament. He probably will go south for the tournament, but he and Mrs. Gardner and Miss Mary Gardner will not go to the club for an extended stay until March.

The Thorne Donnelleys, who usually spend most of the winter in the south, now are in Tucson, Ariz., where their young son is spending the winter. The Donnelleys will be in the southwest about three weeks.

Curtis B. Munsons Wintering at Aiken.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis B. Munson are avoiding the cold weather at their ranch in Alberta, Canada, by spending the rest of the winter at Aiken, S. C. They were here recently for a visit with Mrs. Munson's mother, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Chappell Jr. of Lake Forest have gone to Sea Island, Ga., where they expect to stay for six weeks.

Quiet St. Augustine, on Florida's east coast, has attracted the Eric De Lamarters, who have been living there since September. Mrs. Alfred F. Wallenstein of New York is visiting them now.

Mrs. De Koven Phelps is waiting to go to Florida in March, for she is busy now settling a new apartment in Lake Shore drive.

The Charles H. Swifts left Saturday for a cruise which will include stops at Havana, Mexico, Hawaii, Samoa, and Tahiti. They will return to Chicago in mid-March.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morse have gone to Winter Park, Fla., to stay until February. Then they will go to Useppa Island, off Florida's west coast, where they will be joined for about three weeks by their daughters, Baroness Beck and Mrs. William Covington. The junior Morses will leave in mid-February to visit her parents, the Howard Bonbrights of Detroit, at their winter home in Miami Beach. The Morses will be away from Lake Forest about a month.

The Ralph Richardsons and Mrs. Henry Hooper have gone to Palm Beach for a visit at Mahawata, Col. Robert R. McCormick's home in South Ocean boulevard.

Colin Campbell to Join Walter Teich in Panama.

Colin Campbell will be off late this month to spend February with Walter Teich in Panama. Mr. Teich now is spending a few weeks in Mexico and Guatemala and will go on to California before returning to Chicago April 1.

The cold weather is having its effect on the hunting country in Virginia, so Mrs. Merrill Hubbard is postponing her return south until the ground has thawed. Mrs. Hubbard and her sister, Mrs. Francis Sears of Boston, shared a cottage in Virginia all fall, but each went home for Huneker on Picasso.

We were talking of the late James Gibbons Huneker, one of the best critics of the arts America has produced. A rereading of a chapter, Matisse, Picasso, and Others in his The Pathos of Distance had been of particular interest with the imminent great Picasso show at the Art institute that covers 40 years of his art. Writing in 1912 [the first exhibition of Picasso in America was at Mr. Stieglitzs' Photo-Secession gallery in New York in 1911], even the perceptive and sentient Huneker said:

Our objection to it and to others of its kind [tho we are grateful to Mr. Stieglitz for his unselfish impresarioship in such affairs] is that such drawing and painting are only for a few artists. It is all very well to say that the public will learn to appreciate later; we doubt it.

The Art institute undoubtedly will make public at the end of the show the number of the thousands who streamed in to see the Picassos.

What drawings and paintings Mr. Stieglitz showed in 1911 are not mentioned in the Huneker book, but judging from the date, and Huneker's reference to "those inanimate blocks, kindergarten idols of wood and bronze" and his comment, "You dream of immemorial Asiatic monsters and also of the verses of Emile Verhaeren —The desert of my soul is peopled with black gods, huge blocks of wood . . ." it possibly was an exhibit of work done in his Negro period, after he had deserted his earlier suavity of line, or of cubism in its rudimentary stage. An exhibit of work of that period alone might not draw a huge public even now, 30 years later. And in the same chapter Huneker analyzes Picasso and what he was doing understandingly and appreciatively. Picasso, "this trained artist who has dropped the entire baggage of a lifetime's study to follow his beckoning star," he wrote.

"If you're talking about Huneker, I know a story about him," interrupted Sam Marx to Meyric Rogers. The story, streamlined, has to do with a quarrel between the late Vladimir de Pachman and his manager. It was Huneker who brought them together again.

"Remember," he said to the manager, "his Bach is worse than his bite!"

A Picasso Run Up at Home.

Guests at a recent teatime gathering in one of the beautiful homes in Chicago observed that both the hostess' Picassos of the artist's cubistic period were hanging, in their accustomed places on either side of the fireplace, whereas the New York catalog of the great Picasso show lists one of them, Portrait of Kahnweiler, as in the exhibit.

"Yes, the Kahnweiler portrait is in the show," she explained in answer to a question about it. "I did the copy there on the wall."

[It spoils the story to add that she herself is an artist, tho few know of her virtuousity with paint and canvas.]

Large Pockets Carry Big News of Style Season

BY REA SEEGER.

From the time Granny gloated over a single deep pocket concealed in the side seam of a very full skirt to the clever pockets hidden away in modern jackets, pockets have been of first importance to the feminine half of the population.

With a new season getting under way, here is one of the biggest fashion surprises of the times. Pockets and more pockets come in huge shapes and sizes, glorified ideas for use as well as ornamentation. Not in generations have there been such grand affairs for the use of the ladies.

Pockets on jackets are slapped smartly on the side hiplines; patched on, attached like a leather case with effective straps, or hung on with just the tops rather mysteriously fastened. And as if that were not enough, most of the largest pockets are sensationally braided, embroidered, or accented with handsome appliqued designs. Stitching is another decorative device to catch the eye. Pockets to the front, pockets on the chest, pockets on the skirt, and pockets just for fun. If you've ever fussed about the 15 pockets allowed the men in their suits, this is the time to give the masculine array a telling bit of competition.

Some of the new daytime dresses have pockets that extend down to the hemline of the skirt. Some of the best looking jersey dresses have front fullness well below the waistline and this shirring is held in place between a pair of cleverly cut and shaped pockets.

Hipline pockets will surprise you with their varied size, distinctive shape, and the slick new manner of streamlining without adding bulk to the figure. Long jacket suits for early spring wear are literally plastered with deep, wide, outsize pockets. It's the most exciting fashion news of the season!

[Clotilde presents on page 17 a pattern for a spring dress replete with pockets.]

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Jussi Bjoerling, the cherubic looking Swedish-Finnish tenor who in three short seasons in America has bought golden opinions from all sorts of people, gave a recital in the Civic Opera house yesterday under the auspices of the American Daughters of Sweden and the American Scandinavian alliance. Thanks to the efforts of the sponsors, the audience was large; thanks to the quality of Mr. Bjoerling's work, it was enthusiastic.

This recital for the benefit of the Red Cross fund of Finland began with—of all things—a Russian song! That both performer and audience were concerned with larger issues than mere chauvinism was indicated by the fervor with which the former sang this air from Tschaikowski's "Eugen Onegin" and by the cordiality with which the latter received it. After all, said the whole house in effect, Tschaikowsky had little or nothing to do with the invasion of Finland.

The program progressed to German lieder and to arias from "Faust" and "Manon." After the intermission there were some Scandinavian and American songs, excerpts from Italian opera, and such an unclassifiable item as Rossini's "La Danza" sung in Swedish.

Mr. Bjoerling sang with wonderful ease and smoothness. His phrasings were fastidious, but rich in subtle detail. The whole performance—except for two or three climaxes in the operatic bits—was marked by a patrician restraint.

Voice colorings were as various as the character of the program demanded. There was a bitter ring in Sibelius' "Black Roses," an exquisite airy tenderness in Foster's "I Dream of Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair." In the latter song, as if inspired by the feat of Jeanie's hair in "floating like a vapor on the soft summer air," Mr. Bjoerling achieved that bodiless, feathery voice quality which is at once the dream and the despair of tenors.

Harry Ebert at the piano followed his principal like a shadow. No rubato took him by surprise, no sudden diminuendo found him still pounding away.

Something away out of the ordinary is announced for the Civic Opera house the afternoon of Sunday, April 28. Lily Pons, soprano, will appear with an orchestra conducted by her husband, André Kostelanetz.

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia Brentiford, fashion artist, is sentenced to 18 months in prison under the name of Clara Brown, unknowingly an accomplice in crime with Rory Clarke. Unaware of the disaster her fiancé, Michael Alloway, is on his way from Malta for the wedding. At Honebyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. Bessie manages to change places with Cynthia and let Cynthia have her two weeks' leave as wardress and marry Michael. After a stolen fortnight of happiness, Cynthia persuades Michael to go back to Malta alone, pretending she has to have an operation and will join him later. Back in prison Cynthia discovers she is going to have a baby. Bent on blackmail, Rory Clarke gets an interview with her in the guise of her solicitor. Determined not to have her baby born in prison, Cynthia manages to steal a wardress' uniform and escape. In her flat she finds Michael's sister Marion who has been worried by Cynthia's silence. Explaining everything as a lapse of memory, Cynthia gladly goes to stay with Michael's people, not knowing Rory Clarke is trailing her.

INSTALMENT XIII.

A DOUBTFUL REFUGE.

On the way upstairs Cynthia went into the room that had been Michael's den; it was much the same as it had been when he was an undergraduate. There were school and college groups round the walls. It was amusing to look at the rather staid Michael when he was a harum-scarum boy. There was a cricket group of Charchester— he would have been about seventeen then.

Michael was standing beside the captain and next to George Rennington, the captain being seated. Her eye fell to the names inscribed underneath.

G. Rennington. M. E. Alloway. And then the name in the center—the captain's name, R. Clarke.

That smiling, handsome boy of seventeen or so, looking every inch a cricket captain! Today, still smiling and handsome, but a murderer and a blackmailer and, she supposed, every other unpleasant thing a man can be. There was another group with R. Clarke as a football captain, too. Evidently he had had immense prestige at school. . . . Down the stairs she could faintly hear the burble of Marion's voice, tho she could not distinguish the words. No doubt, thought Cynthia, she was telling Mrs. Alloway of the change of nursing homes, the lapse of memory, and the wardress's uniform.

In the next morning's paper the news of the "dramatic escape" had shrunk to a quarter of a column under the headline, "Woman Convict Still at Large." Mrs. Alloway would keep to her room until after lunch. The two girls were alone, but Marion made no comment on the news.

It was a fine morning and they decided to take a short stroll over the moor. Cynthia risked a remark about it.

"I see they haven't caught the escaped convict yet."

There was a short silence and then Marion said:

"I hope they never do."

"But, Marion, yesterday you were urging me to join in the chase."

"Perhaps you convinced me that I was taking the wrong view."

They strolled on in silence. The village could be reached in 10 minutes by a sheep track over the moor, tho by road it was the better part of three miles. Toward the end the sheep track twisted thru low knolls, and as they turned one of the knolls they came face to face with Rory Clarke.

He was in the same disguise as when he had visited the prison. But instead of the morningcoat he was wearing a lounge suit. He looked like a prosperous young solicitor taking a few days off in the country.

"Why, Cynthia! You'll never in your life believe that this is a chance meeting, will you!"

"Hullo!" said Cynthia weakly. She felt dizzy and fought back the feeling. She must keep her head at all costs. "Marion, let me introduce an old friend——" She didn't even know what the wretched man's name was supposed to be, and in that moment of tension could think of only one name—her own maiden name—"Mr. Brentiford—Miss Alloway. We're no relation whatever, tho he insists on saying we're cousins."

A little pleasantry that helped out the awkwardness.

"And what on earth are you doing here?" she rushed on. "I thought you hated the country."

"Business, my dear. I came down on the last train yesterday and am staying at the village pub—sorry, hotel."

He turned from Cynthia and deftly engaged Marion in conversation, turning back and walking with them to the village,

"Your sister-in-law, as I daresay you know, rashly entrusts me with her business affairs," he said as they entered the village. "One of the firms she used to draw for has been making a fuss about a contract and I've been trying to trace her for nearly six weeks. I suppose it would be asking too much, Cynthia, if I were to suggest that you come back to my room at the pub and just answer a few questions?" To Marion he added: "I won't keep her more than 10 minutes at the outside."

Rory Clarke was an adept at contriving such a situation, and in a couple of minutes Cynthia was in the private parlor of the Lorna Doone Arms while Marion walked thoughtfully on toward the village's only shop.

"This is perfectly marvelous, beautiful," said Clarke in an undertone. "But those rope ladders cost me thirty shillings apiece!"

"Your working expenses," said Cynthia tartly. Her checkbook was in her bag and she knew what she must do. "We said two-fifty if I failed to carry out my part of the business."

"If I weren't so frightfully hard up," sighed Clarke, "I wouldn't let you pay a cent."

He took the open checkbook from her hand, made out to bearer, and smiled sentimentally as if he were accepting the glad sacrifice of a friend.

"Two-fifty honestly earned by hard work!" he remarked. "With my abilities I ought to be able to run straight, don't you think? It always troubles me that I'm a crook, because, d'you know, I never feel crooked. Now I've just had the chance to buy a third share in a small transport business for six hundred pounds. I should have a team of six lorries and send goods to all points of the compass. I suppose, merely as an investment, it wouldn't interest you to put up another three hundred and fifty?"

"I haven't got it."

"But, beautiful, I saw your passbook the other day. You had nearly twelve hundred."

"I can't get at that without arousing suspicion," protested Cynthia. She felt that in another moment she would throw the ink at him, not because he was blackmailing her—she was fully resigned to that—but because of that easy, incredulous smile.

"Spend the two-fifty first," she added sullenly, "and that will give me time to see if anything can be arranged."

"Beautiful, I read a half-promise in your words and am elated," he drawled. "And if you should change your address—purely as a matter of courtesy, because I can always find it—just notify that flat-porter of yours, will you?"

"Very well."

At that moment she saw clearly what would happen. The man would never leave her alone so long as she had a penny—so long as Michael had a penny. He would first blackmail her under threat of telling her husband. Then he would tell her husband and blackmail him under threat of sending his wife back to prison.

On the other hand, as long as there was something to be gained, he would probably keep his mouth shut.

Cynthia opened her bag and under pretense of powdering her nose noticed how much money she was carrying. Thirty shillings and some silver. She would risk that. A moment later, when his attention was diverted, she pushed her bag down between the back and seat of the armchair, then got up.

"You said you'd want me for 10 minutes, and we've spent nearly that time. There's no need for me to stay with you any longer."

"It's been delightful to see you again," he said mechanically, and she joined Marion outside the shop.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

There are really only three ways to cook veal—by roasting, braising, and stewing. Veal contains too much connective tissue to be cooked successfully by frying and is too dry a meat to broil. But roast veal is savory, brown, and flavorful; braised veal is tender and chickeny, and stewed veal is as good as any other stewed meat.

ROAST THESE CUTS OF VEAL.

Rump roast, plain or boned and rolled.
Round roast and leg of veal.
Rolled shoulder roast.
Blade roast.
Arm roast.
Crown roast or standing rib roast [same cut].
Pocket roast [breast prepared for stuffing].

BRAISE THESE CUTS OF VEAL.

Rib chops.
Blade and arm steaks.
Shoulder roast, if you don't wish to roast it.
Veal breast.
Veal scallops and rosettes.
Veal riblets, if you don't stew them.
Heel of round and hind shank, if you don't stew them.
Veal patties.
"Pocket" roast, if you don't roast it.

STEW THESE CUTS OF VEAL.

Foreshank.
Riblets, cut up for stew.
Breast, cup up for stew.
Hind shank and heel of round.

To prevent any misconceptions about roasting, braising, and stewing I shall define each by applying the terms to cooking cuts of veal.

HOW TO ROAST VEAL.

To roast is to cook by dry heat, uncovered. Place the roast on a rack in an open roaster. Roast at a constant temperature of 300 degrees. A meat thermometer is the best time indicator. When it registers an internal temperature of 170 degrees the veal is done to a turn. For a leg roast this would mean about 25 minutes to the pound. Boned and rolled shoulder would require approximately 40 minutes to the pound. Salt and pepper the roast at any convenient time before or during cooking.

HOW TO BRAISE VEAL.

Braising is cooking covered, in moist heat. Cuts to be braised are first browned in a small amount of fat. Then the temperature is reduced to a low point and cooking is continued on top of the stove or in the oven, until the meat is tender. Veal chops and steaks often are dipped in diluted egg and crumbs before braising.

HOW TO STEW VEAL.

Stewing means cooking in water. The veal may or may not be browned first. Often the flavor is improved if at least a part of the meat is dredged with flour and browned in hot fat before water is added. Cooking should be done at simmering, not boiling, temperature. Herbs and spices may be added during cooking if desired.

The important thing to remember in cooking veal, as with cooking other meats, is to use a low temperature. Constant low temperatures have proved themselves more satisfactory than initial high "searing" temperatures followed by lower heat.

Jan. 22, 1940.

The combination of numbers makes this a 1-day, but since there is a 22 behind the 1, it would be wise to take things easy, and not be too anxious to force things. Those born on a 22-day and who are over 28 and under 56 are in a difficult period unless they are attuned to high ambitions and are willing to work diligently. They must be just and fair, international in thought and use good judgment and executive power. This year is the opening up of new paths and greater ventures for those born on Jan. 22.

Pockets Galore for Spring

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

You've heard by now that pockets are the big fashion news, and we're not the kind to "come in on the slow freight," so here they are in a dress you'll like for spring and for your winter vacation down south, too. The original of this modified shirtwaist frock is fashioned of pastel, dull-surfaced crêpe with contrasting buttons down the front and a belt to match them around the waist. As the sketch illustrates, pastel prints in a dress with long sleeves also are effective spring fare.

Style No. 3187 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Basis for Good Taste in Books May Be Laid Before Child Is 5

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The child who has owned books and had books read to him from almost the beginning will have a wider interest and probably a more developed and intelligent taste in books. Small children have some universal interests. They adore stories of animals, for one thing. They like simple rhythmic poetry or jingles. They enjoy pictures. Fairy tales I personally object to for a 4 year old; they belong several years further on.

Here are some suggestions for children up to 5. These you can supplement by going over the 1940 crop of children's books:

The Babar Books, by Jean de Brunhoff, published by Random House, New York. Large edition, $3; small edition, $1.

There are a number of these—all enchanting to children.

Nursery Rhymes Book 1. Illustrated by Leslie Brooke. Published by Frederick Warne & Co., Ltd., New York, $2. [For small books with fewer rhymes, $.60. Three separate books—one, two, and three.]

The following may be had, bound in sets of four [$2.25] and in sets of eight [$4]:

"The Three Jovial Huntsmen," "Sing a Song of Sixpence," "The Queen of Hearts," "The Farmer's Boy," "The House That Jack Built," "Hey Diddle Diddle," "A Frog He Would a Wooing Go," and "Ride a Cock Horse."

"The Farmer's Boy" has wonderful farmyard pictures.

"Karoo the Kangaroo," by Kurt Wiese. Published by Coward-McCann Co., New York, N. Y. $1.50.

This is the "solemn sweet story of a little kangaroo's whole life" written by a man who owned a baby one in Australia. From five to nine would be about the age range for this. Most of the illustrations are beautiful.

"Millions of Cats," by Wanda Gig. Published by Coward-McCann Co., New York, N. Y. $1.50.

Cold Speeds Up Departures to Winter Resorts

Christmas. Mrs. Hubbard will leave Lake Forest about Feb. 1 to remain south until April 1.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour are looking forward to three months of deep sea fishing in Florida. They are leaving about Feb. 1 for Boca Grande, where they will stay until the end of April.

Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson has left for Santa Barbara, Cal., where she will stay for at least two months. Her daughter, Miss Mary Ryerson, stayed in town to continue her studies at the University of Chicago.

House hunting in Chicago rather than in a sunny clime have been the Raymond Masseys, who have subleased an apartment in Astor street. When it appeared that "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," the play in which Mr. Massey has the name rôle, would be here for a considerable time, the actor and his wife decided to keep house.

Mr. Massey has met many Chicagoans at various parties that have been given for him since his arrival in Chicago with Robert E. Sherwood's play. Thursday afternoon members of the English-Speaking union and their immediate families will meet the distinguished actor and producer at a tea at 4:30 o'clock at the Arts club.

Secor Browne and Fiancee to Be Guests at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Aldis J. Browne Jr. are giving a dinner party Saturday night at their Astor street apartment for their brother, Secor D. Browne, and his fiancée, Miss Barbara Boyden. Miss Boyden, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Boyden of Dartmouth, Mass., arrived on Saturday for a visit with her fiancé and his family. While she is here she will select an apartment in which she and young Mr. Browne will live after their marriage on March 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Browne Sr. are giving a cocktail party for their future daughter-in-law on Friday at their Lake Shore drive home.

Mrs. Richardson Dunham announced yesterday that the engagement of her niece, Joan Palmer Richardson, to Coram T. Davis Jr. of Evanston, announced last August, has been broken. Miss Richardson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Howard Richardson.

Junior League to Have Winter Meeting Today.

The annual winter meeting of the Chicago Junior league will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the Drake hotel. The public affairs department of the league is in charge of the program. Luncheon will follow.

The league's arts department has issued invitations to a lecture on "Complex Complexions" at 11:30 o'clock Friday morning in the Tower room of the Drake. A buffet luncheon will follow.

The 29th annual governing members' meeting and luncheon of the Chicago Art institute will be held at 12:30 o'clock today in gallery 40 on the second floor of the institute. Potter Palmer, president, will preside.

Mrs. John Palmer Hooker is opening her Winnetka home at 4 o'clock this afternoon for a tea at which Mrs. John Alden Carpenter and Joseph Nate will tell about the plans for continuing the Chicago City Opera company.

Two motion pictures in color will be shown at the Cordon club after a buffet supper from 6 to 7 o'clock tonight. The Cordon has issued invitations to a gala Mardi Gras dinner on Feb. 6. Helen Abbott Byfield will present "French Sauces, Suzettes and Songs," with Margaret Farr Wilson at the piano.

The selection of the correct line of play is more than half the battle from declarer's point of view. The actual execution of the plan is far easier. Of course, in one sense, the two are closely related, since in order to "select" there must be a sort of mental preview of the subsequent tricks. In today's hand, a vulnerable slam was fulfilled by correct selection and perfect execution.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the five of spades, dummy won with the ace, and declarer now carefully considered alternate lines of play. He promptly abandoned the idea of ruffing a club in dummy, since this could not work for two distinct reasons: First, it would be necessary to concede a club before a third round could be ruffed, and, thus, if the opponents wanted to, they could easily remove dummy's singleton trump ace. Even if they did not do this, there was a chance of a spade overruff and, in addition, the fact that the ace of hearts could not be spared for ruffing purposes. The plan of establishing dummy's spades was also disdained. A fair break in suit, or an early fall of the king and jack would be necessary. Also, this plan would involve ruffing two spades, with the consequent danger of overruffs.

Having disposed of the unfavorable plans, declarer embarked on the one that was left. He cashed dummy's ace of trumps, then entered his hand with the king of diamonds. He drew the outstanding trumps in three additional leads, discarding one club and two spades from dummy, and then led the eight of diamonds. West covered with the nine, and now declarer made the really crucial play of the hand. He let the nine win, not even risking putting up dummy's jack. The moment that West followed to two rounds of diamonds, declarer saw a sure victory and was certainly not going to risk his small slam for the lure of an overtrick.

It was fortunate for him that he didn't. East showed out on the second diamond lead, and now a finesse was established against West's remaining queen-ten. West led a club which the ace won, and the diamond finesse was taken and declarer's two losing clubs discarded.

It should be noted that, had declarer taken the innocent appearing diamond finesse, he inevitably would have lost the hand. The jack would hold, but West still would have the diamonds stopped, and since dummy would be void of entries except for the diamond ace, the suit could not be established and cashed for the necessary club discards.

A Kindly Heart No. 1 Requisite for True Charm

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"There's a certain woman I know who is forever telling people that, 'thank heavens,' she has charm. She took a long course in how to acquire it, she tells, and ought to know how to be charming. I don't think that she is charming. She is critical of other people and unkind in her criticisms. And, another thing, she is one of those horrible people who tell others 'things for their own good.' I wish you'd set me straight. If that's charm, I want none of it.

"MADELEINE."

You're right, Madeleine, wanting none of that kind of charm. There isn't a grain of the magic potion in a woman whose heart is unkind and whose tongue is hurtful.

Charm, above everything else, dictates kindness, generosity about other people's failings and sweetness toward every one. We don't mean a saccharine sweetness, but the sweetness that comes from knowing that there is good and bad in the best of us, and acts as if she herself were not exempt from the clause denoting her own weaknesses. Indeed, a certain humility about one's own self and one's own failings is a charm ingredient. Not abasement, understand, not self-conscious inferiority. Just the knowledge that no one is perfect, not even self. This is the thing that mellows judgment of others and sweetens the character.

A woman might keep on taking a lifelong course in how to be charming—learn every little suggested lure, appeal, or what you wish to call it—and still be a million miles away in real effect from "that bloom on a woman" that Barrie described.

A woman who proclaims that she is an individual of charm is no more likely to possess it than the woman who keeps on reminding you that she has a sense of humor, with every act and deed belying the humor asset. We simply cannot imagine a really charming woman so proclaiming herself. That is for others to do. So, Madeleine, we suggest you study a really charming woman and note that kindness of heart and tongue are hers above all else.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Gift shopping is made easy at the cosmetic counters that house the beauty and bath aids in gay, colonial packages. There are 23 items, all done up colorfully and quaintly, each package a faithful replica of an authentic 18th century antique.

Our pet of the lot probably is the water softener, in a pleasant, fresh and old-fashioned fragrance which comes in a little wooden bucket with a wooden scoop. It's a peach of a gift or possession for the woman with a house "done" in the colonial fashion. And it's a nice water softener.

There is a perfume, too. This is cleverly packaged in a miniature hurricane lamp with the perfume itself in what would be the candlewick. The toilet water, in the same light, clean fragrance, is in a really lovely hobnailed bottle.

The soap is of excellent quality, and packaged in a kerchief or glove box that is decorative and useful. Each cake of soap bears a carved design of a spinning wheel. This package is a find for the gift hunter.

There are many more items from which to choose; each one with the stamp of originality. All are inexpensive, proving once again that charming luxuries in toiletries are available at low cost. In this sort of thing the American woman has an edge on her sisters the world over. Luxury and expensiveness are not synonymous here.

Six Cities Give 101 Millions to Charity in '39

New York, Jan. 21 [Special.]—A total of $101,060,184 in gifts and bequests was made for educational and charitable purposes in six major cities of the United States during 1939, it was announced today as the result of a study made by the John Price Jones corporation. This compares with 1938 benefactions amounting to $79,866,209 in the same cities, and approximates a 25 per cent increase in philanthropic giving last year, as against the previous year. The cities included in the study are New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington and Baltimore.

Gifts alone, exclusive of bequests, totaled $79,588,321, compared with $49,943,714 for the previous year. Most of this increase, however, is accounted for by a single gift, made by Samuel H. Kress of a collection of paintings by old masters, to the National Gallery of Art at Washington. This collection is valued at $25,000,000.

Of the various fields of philanthropy, contributions for foreign relief showed the largest gain. Publicly announced gifts for foreign relief in these cities totaled $4,074,573, compared with $588,595 for the preceding year, $19,339,617 in 1938.

Increases for 1939 over 1938 appear in gifts for education, organized relief, fine arts, religion and foreign relief; and decreases appeared in 1939 totals in recreation, health and miscellaneous reform.

The total of gifts for education in 1939 was $20,594,224, compared with $19,339,617 in 1938.

Chicago led the representative cities in percentage of gain over 1938, its 1939 gifts totaling $15,282,734, as against $6,113,690. Bequests in Chicago in 1939 totaled $10,680,000 compared with $1,591,200 in 1928.

AMERICANS RALLY TO BEAT BLACKHAWKS, 2-1

Leaps 195 Feet Off Cary Slide.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Torger Tokle, newest hero among the nation's array of outstanding ski jumpers, yesterday convinced 15,000 spectators that he hasn't changed his winning habits since leaving his native Norway. The slender 20 years old New Yorker soared 190 and 195 feet in two attempts to win the class A championship in the Norge Ski club's 34th annual tournament near Fox River Grove.

It was Tokle's 14th consecutive triumph since he arrived in the United States last year and his 195 foot effort established a new hill record, surpassing by one foot the mark set by Alf Engen of Salt Lake City three years ago. His point total was 153.6. Tokle began his long victory string at Bear Mountain, N. Y., last winter and won his 13th meet at Beloit, Wis., Saturday with leaps of 205 and 212 feet.

Wind Upsets Riders.

A strong wind blew across the huge steel slide on the banks of the Fox river and caused numerous spills. Laurence Maurin, Milwaukee, Wis., veteran, suffered a brain concussion in one of the falls. He was reported resting comfortably in the Norwegian-American hospital last night. Maurin had entered the senior class competition and fell on the 148 foot mark on the hill.

Shortly afterward, Jorgen Johansen of Rockford, Ill., roared down the slide and also tumbled. He was taken to the clubhouse and after treatment for a back injury, he was able to leave for his home. The two accidents forced club officials to remove six inches of snow from the takeoff.

Eugene Wilson of Auburn, Cal., who finished second at Beloit, trailed Tokle again yesterday. Wilson, a native of Colleraine, Minn., leaped 185 feet in his first attempt and 192 in his second. He had a point total of 152.2. George Kotlarek, Duluth, Minn., United States champion in 1937, was third with jumps of 172 and 171 feet.

Badger Star Fourth.

Walter Bietila of the University of Wisconsin, member of America's 1936 Olympic team, placed fourth with leaps of 174 and 178 feet, and Ted Zoberski, Ironwood, Mich., took fifth place by jumping 169 and 182 feet. Ingvar Arnesen, New London, Wis., leaped 179 and 161 feet for sixth place.

Olaf Ulland of Seattle, Wash., skiing coach at the University of Washington, who once held the world's long distance record of 337 feet, established in Italy four years ago, gave a disappointing performance. Ulland finished in seventh place. He soared 170 feet on his first jump and 176 on his second.

Ellsworth Mitchell, Ishpeming, Mich., won his second consecutive class B championship with leaps of 149 and 172 feet. Mitchell, who triumphed at Beloit Saturday, had a point standing of 141.4. Raymond Nelson of Strum, Wis., jumped 158 feet and 172 feet, but his form was not as good as Mitchell's and he took second place. Herbert Feddick, Duluth, Minn., was third, jumping 152 and 174 feet.

Hein Class C Winner.

The class C title went to Robert Hein, Ironwood, Mich., who had leaps of 144 and 164 feet. Ralph Bietila, Ishpeming, Mich., was second with 154 and 164 feet. The senior division crown was won by George Gundersen, Norge Ski club veteran, who had two jumps of 161 feet. Gardar Iversen, St. Paul, Minn., was second with 147 and 157 feet.

Fourteen skiiers of Finnish extraction participated in a program which preceded the meet. Norge club officials donated 10 per cent of the receipts to the Finnish relief fund. Results:

NORTH CAROLINA STATE ALUMNI TO AID ATHLETES

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Alumni of North Carolina State college annouced today that athletic scholarships would be openly awarded students who meet qualifications at the institution for at least the next five years.

D. W. Seifert of Weldon, elected president of the group which organized the Wolfpack club, said the club would provide athletic scholarships for all sports from contributions made by alumni and supporters.

Make an About Face.

North Carolina state, a member of the Southern conference, is a unit of the university of North Carolina, of which Dr. Frank P. Graham is president. In 1936 Dean J. W. Harrelson, who is a founder of the Wolfpack club, voted with President Graham for the so-called Graham plan, intended to prohibit giving special preference to athletes in award of scholarships in the Southern conference. The plan was virtually repealed two years ago.

Open and Above-Board.

"Whether we like it or not, subsidizing of athletes is and has been going on for years in every school of our acquaintance," said President Seifert. "For the last two years we have endeavored to bring our proselyting activities out from under the table.

"We believe that the time has come for athletic scholarships to be placed on a businesslike basis, open and above-board from every standpoint. And that is exactly what we are going to do."

Wade Ison, secretary-treasurer of the Wolfpack club, and college publicity man, said the scholarships would be handled entirely by an alumni committee, independent of any faculty council.

Sale of Lions Under Probe of Pro League

Dayton, O., Jan. 21 [Special].—The National Football league's executive committee, meeting in special session today to pass upon the change in ownership of the Detroit Lions adjourned without taking action.

Carl Storck, league president, said the committee wanted to discuss a "few minor details" with George A. Richards, former owner, who last week sold 78 per cent of the stock in the Lion corporation to Frederick L. Mandel Jr. of Chicago and associates for $225,000.

Storck declined to amplify his statement, but it was understood the chief matter in discussions with Richards will be the settlement of the contract of Gus Henderson, Lion coach last year.

Had Three Year Contract.

Henderson had been dismissed by Richards prior to the negotiations with Mandel. His contract has two years to run at a reported $8,000 a year.

The committee is said to be opposed to ratification of the ownership's change until Henderson's contract has been satisfied. Henderson was here today, coming from the coast where he has engaged an attorney to press his claim. The contract was not included in the assets involved in the sale, Mandel said.

Expect Verdict in 10 Days.

It also is reported that the committee preferred to become better acquainted with Mandel's associates before sanctioning the transfer. Mandel's associates are Tony Owen, a former Chicago newspaper man and hotel press agent, and Charles Chaplin of New York, who for 10 years has been employed in the offices of the New York Giants' football team.

Storck said a decision was expected in 10 days. Only two members of the committee, Dan Topping of Brooklyn and Bert Bell of Philadelphia, attended the meeting.

ACTION DELAYED ON RESIGNATIONS AT KANSAS STATE

Manhattan, Kas., Jan. 21 [Special].—Action on the resignations of Wes Fry and Stan Williamson, head football coach and assistant, respectively, of Kansas State college, was postponed today by the faculty council on athletics because of the illness of President F. D. Farrell.

Farrell is suffering from pneumonia and physicians do not expect he will be released from the hospital for 10 days. It is not likely the faculty group will meet without him.

Fry and Williamson resigned Thursday, Williamson claiming he had been fired by Fry, and Fry giving as his reason the "best interests of the university."

Five hundred students paraded in a "We Want Williamson" demonstration last night, rallying at the home of Athletic Director M. F. Ahearn. Ahearn told them no action had been taken on the matter, but that he would acquaint the faculty council with their sentiments. Petitions bearing 2,500 names have been gathered by student leaders demanding that Williamson's resignation be rejected and he be named Fry's successor.

Cooke Wins in Florida West Coast Net Final

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP).—Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., sixth ranking player of the United States, defeated Ed Alloo of Berkeley, Cal., 6-4, 6-1, 6-1, here today to win the Florida West Coast tennis singles and a second leg on the tournament trophy. He also won the title in 1938. Pauline Betz, national indoor champion from Los Angeles, triumphed in the women's singles by defeating Mary Hardwick, British Wightman cup player, 8-6, 6-3.

DEMARET BEATS GOGGIN, 2 AND 1, FOR GOLF TITLE

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 21 (AP).—Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., pitching and putting in incredible fashion, defeated Willie Goggin of San Francisco, 2 and 1, today to win the $5,000 San Francisco match play open golf tournament before a gallery of 3,000.

He finished the 36 hole finals four shots under par for the Lake Merced course, a par 36-36—72 layout which stresses accuracy from tee to green. Goggin himself had nothing to be ashamed of. He completed the match, most of it in chilly weather, in two under par.

Unexcelled Record.

Demaret's performance thruout the tournament was unexcelled. After qualifying in second place with 71-70—141, he won all five of his match play contests without once being down to an opponent.

With his victory the smiling Texan carved himself a new niche in the 10 year history of the tournament. He became the first player ever to win it twice.

In addition, Demaret jumped into the lead as top money winner on the present winter tournament swing—with a total of $2,375. He received $100 for winning second place in the qualifying round this week and $1,000 first prize money. A week ago he won the Oakland open, worth $1,200 to the champion. And two weeks ago in the Los Angeles open he earned $75 for a place far back in the field.

After today's finalists halved the first six holes, Demaret won the 7th to take a lead he never relinquished. He was one up at the 9th; two up at the 18th and 27th holes.

Scores Two Eagles.

Demaret turned the morning round in 36—35—71, one under par, to Goggin's 37—36—73. Each carded 36s on the third nine.

Demaret's long and short irons to the greens and his uncanny putting were factors nothing but supergolf could have overcome. He dropped 20 foot putts for two eagle 3's on the final nine, meanwhile blasting out of traps twice to within three feet of the cup, and sinking other putts from 6 to 12 feet. Twice he laid his opponent dead stymies. He had 13 one putt greens for the 35 holes, but in this respect Goggin had an edge, getting down in one putt on 15 greens.

Goggin himself scored an eagle down the home stretch, at the 30th, but it did no better than tie.

Records of Finalists.

After qualifying, Demaret defeated Charley Sheppard of Oakland, Cal., 6 and 4; Earl Fry of Alameda, Cal., 2 and 1; Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, Long Island, N. Y., 3 and 2, and Dick Metz of Oak Park, Ill., 4 and 2.

Goggin qualified at 147. He knocked out four of the tournament's big shots on his way up the ladder. In the first round he defeated Lawson Little, tournament medalist and winner of the recent Los Angeles open, then eliminated Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., and U. S. Open Champion Byron Nelson, all by margins of 3 and 2. He won from Craig Wood, runner-up for the 1939 national open, 2 and 1, in the semi-final round.

Goggin won $500 as runner-up. Little won $325 as medalist. Wood was fourth in the money distribution with $300, and Metz received $250 as a semi-finalist. Quarter-finalists received $150, second round losers $100, and qualifiers, $75.

Immortality.

The fairest rose God made must droop,
Today the sun may glow in cloudless skies,
Tomorrow brings the wind and rain that chills,
Yet shall we forget the beauty of flower and song
And think the glorious sunlight forever gone?

Have winter snows not lain across a sleeping earth
Like some great awe inspiring, ghostly blight,
Still out of desolation Spring always comes
Just as rosy dawn treads upon the heels of night—
What earthbound man would doubt The power of One
Whose will is thus so wisely and so visibly done?

Who has not marveled at the elusive loveliness
Feeling ecstasy at having glimpsed a fragment
Of a celestial promise that would not prove in vain,
Toward deeper belief in the mystery of the Great Beyond?

She whom we knew and loved dwells on in Paradise
That rich, abounding life He promises His own,
Her trusting, zealous heart and steadfast faith
Ne'er faltered when her Master called her Home.
She looked upon the compassion of His ethereal face

The seasons change, flowers fade, birds take flight
And dearest joys seem snatched into eternity;
The soul, alone, goes winging on its way forever more,
Borne up by love and deathless hope in immortality.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Two third period goals last night enabled the New York Americans to beat the Blackhawks, 2 to 1, and abandon the National Hockey league cellar in favor of Montreal. The reversal in their 26th game of the season kept the Hawks from achieving their 12th victory, a mark which would have tied last season's grand total for 48 games.

The winning goal was scored in 16:06 of the final period by Art Chapman shortly after the game had been suspended 19 minutes, due to a severe injury to Goalie Paul Goodman. That Chapman scored, however, was not due to the fact Goodman was carrying on with one eye.

The Hawks, instead of giving their goalie added protection after seven stitches had been taken in his right eyelid, abandoned him. Lorne Carr missed two open, closeup shots from directly in front of the cage just before the puck bounced back to Chapman. Chapman took his time from six feet out, feinted the one eyed goalie while Hawks sprawled on top of each other, then lofted home the winning counter.

Hawks Get Early Lead.

The Hawks led up till 8:57 of the third period on a goal made by Cully Dahlstrom in 13.12 of the first period. Then the Hawks got cocky while the Americans were shorthanded, and allowed Tommy Anderson to score the tying goal. Carr assisted on both the victors' goals.

The Hawks' only goal was accomplished after a lot of formation play which seemed well directed tho not productive. The score began to bloom when Joe Cooper went down the ice, flanked by Dahlstrom and Phil Hergesheimer. Instead of passing to Cully or Phil, as expected, Joe cut loose a shot immediately after he crossed the center of the blue line. Goalie Earl Robertson saved, but Hergesheimer retrieved the rebound, nudged the puck to Dahlstrom, who beat Robertson from close in.

Shortly after the Hawk goal Wiebe was put off for tripping and the game speeded up for the first time. An American power play was broken up when Mush March broke away out of his own defense zone. Mush had an unobstructed path to Robertson's pads but couldn't outsmart the American goalie when he shot from four feet out.

Americans Penalized Twice.

The Americans drew their first and second penalties of the game after the half way mark in the second period. The efforts of the Hawks to move in on the visitors during these shorthanded spans precipitated some lively hockey, tho the period was devoid of scoring.

The Americans' tying score in the third period was made as Al Murray was finishing a term in the penalty box. During Murray's term the Hawks had been pressing for a goal, and in their zeal moved in too close. Anderson got the puck on a break away, progressed along his left boards into the Hawk defense zone, then passed across to Carr. Anderson dashed for the cage and as he did so Carr returned the rubber to him and he beat Goalie Goodman with a shot to the goal post at Goodman's left.

Goodman Gets Hurt.

At the 11 minute mark Wiebe drew his and the Hawks' second and last penalty. The Americans promptly bore down, of course, and in one of the mêlées stirred up, Goalie Goodman made a stop with his right eyelid. Then came that long delay while those seven stitches were taken in the eyelid.

Wiebe still had 32 seconds to serve after the game was resumed and the Americans promptly tested Goodman's vision. It seemed all right, but the Hawks apparently were panicky over the accident, with the resultant distressing pushover. Some of the 14,903 customers booed the Hawks for the way they ran out on their injured goal minder.

GOLDEN GLOVES INTEREST GROWS IN 45 CENTERS

Soldiers Swell Entries in Danville Tourney.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Almost without exception the 45 cities which will send teams to compete in Chicago's 13th Tournament of Champions report greater interest in Golden Gloves amateur boxing this year than ever before. In the list is Danville, Ill., where the tournament is sponsored by the Commercial-News.

"The increase in enrollment at the United States Air Corps Technical school at Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill.," Bob Feidler, sports editor of the Commercial-News, writes, "means that a larger number of young soldiers from the field will compete in the Danville Golden Gloves tournament. Our boxers will meet Feb. 6, 7, 13, and 14 to determine the eight champions who will go to Chicago."

Soldiers Prove Class.

In a recent series of pretournament matches in Danville, Clyde Hamlin, lightweight from Chanute field, outpointed Jimmy Crowe of Danville. Robert O'Malley, bantamweight, and Al Littler, heavyweight, both from Chanute field, also won in this series. They are considered excellent Golden Gloves prospects. Hamlin last year won the featherweight championship in the Bloomington, Ill., tournament sponsored by the Pantagraph.

Chicago's novice boxers have this week in which to submit their entries for the three sectional tournaments, the first of which will start Feb. 5 in the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. All entries received today will be assigned to the physical examination that will be held Friday night in the fifth floor gymnasium of George Trafton, 180 West Randolph street. Later entries this week will be assigned to the examination Jan. 31 in the same gymnasium. The C. Y. O. boxers, approximately 250 in number, will report next Monday night, Jan. 29, in the C. Y. O. gymnasium, 31 East Congress street, for physical examinations.

Examinations Important.

These examinations are important, because no boy will be permitted to compete in Golden Gloves before meeting approval of the Golden Gloves medical staff, which is headed by Dr. William Rothman, and all must also submit cards giving approval of parents or guardians for the bouts.

The last examination for Chicago's open division Golden Gloves boxers will be held Feb. 9 and the deadline for these entries is Feb. 4. Open division boxers also may be examined on the other dates. Ten boxers from the gymnasium, operated by Ted Bogan and Bill Bonnett, were entered Saturday in the Golden Gloves bouts. The gymnasium is located at 5445 South Ashland avenue. In the group were Ed Manning and John Matula, each of whom has had 12 bouts. They will compete in Chicago's tournament in the Coliseum Feb. 20, 21, and 22.

Salzar Regains Title.

Jesse Salzar of Omaha, Neb., will be back for the Tournament of Champions in Chicago Feb. 26, 27, and 28. Jesse won Omaha's 112 pound title two years ago and was accorded a place on the international Golden Gloves squad after he had finished as runner-up in the National A. A. U. tournament. Last year Jesse was defeated in the Omaha finals by Eldon Chadek. This year he took the championship by defeating Eldon's twin brother, Edwin.

Seventy-five amateur boxers will open the Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., tournament next Friday. The winners will meet in the semi-finals and championships Feb. 23 to determine the boys who will come to Chicago Feb. 26. There will be more than 25 bouts Friday night. A number of Chicago boxers now enrolled in the Elcho C. C. C. camp have entered the Wisconsin Rapids tournament. Five of these boys have won 30 fights in their last 36 and hope to take the team trophy in the championships Feb. 23.

START TOURNEY TODAY.

Waverly, Ia., Jan. 21 [Special].—Thirty boxers from Waverly, Waterloo, Independence, Oelwein, and Hampton, will compete tomorrow in a district Golden Gloves tournament sponsored by the American Legion here. Winners will compete in the eastern Iowa championship meet in Cedar Rapids, Ia., in February. Independence, Ia., sponsors a district meet Jan. 25-26 and Anamosa, Ia., Jan. 29-30.

JOYCE AND M'COY MEET TONIGHT IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Willie Joyce, 1937 Chicago Golden Gloves featherweight champion; Altus Allen, 1939 international Golden Gloves heavyweight title holder, and Tommy Pallatin, 1936 National A. A. U. lightweight champion, will appear in three bouts of eight rounds heading the show in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. Joyce is paired with Young Kid McCoy, Detroit junior welterweight; Allen with Lee Oma, light heavyweight, also of Detroit, and Pallatin with Bobby McIntyre, still another Detroit boxer.

Joyce recently returned from a successful New York invasion. He won five bouts there to stretch his string of victories to nine straight. McCoy has a record of five consecutive triumphs.

Allen and Oma will be meeting for the third time, the latter winning by a one round knockout in the first encounter and Allen scoring a four round knockout in the next.

In a four round opener Dick Kist of Danville, Ill., will open a comeback as a middleweight against Charley Banks.

Seell Samara will meet Charles (Gorilla) Grubmyer in the windup bout of a wrestling program this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Supporting matches will bring together Jim McMillen and Eddie Virag, Walter Palmer and Farmer Mack, Rudy Kay and Jack Moore, and Leo Jensen and Balk Estes.

Tony Zale, Gary middleweight contender, yesterday resumed boxing drills in Trafton's gymnasium for a 10 round nontitle bout against Champion Al Hostak in Chicago Stadium next Monday. It was his first sparring workout since Jan. 9 when he contracted a cold which caused postponement of the match, which originally was scheduled for last Friday.

Mickey Walker, former middleweight champion, is en route from Bear Mountain, N. Y., where he is proprietor of a resort, to Hobbs, N. M., where he will referee in an amateur boxing tournament tonight, tomorrow, and Wednesday. . . . Fritzie Zivic, Pittsburgh welterweight, is asking $1,000 for a 10 round contest with Johnny Barbara in the Coliseum Feb. 8. Promoter Irving Schoenwald compromised with a $750 bid. Milt Aron, who is expected to return from a Florida vacation this week, fights Bep Van Klaveren in an additional encounter of 10 rounds. . . . Chairman Joe Triner and Commissioners Sheldon Clark and James R. Fitzpatrick of the Illinois boxing board this afternoon will resume their investigation of Harry Thomas' admission that his engagements with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento were fixed for him to lose.

Sixteen boxers, survivors of a record field of 118, will end boxing sessions this afternoon for the finals in the eighth annual amateur tournament in the Illinois Athletic club Wednesday. All qualifiers are in tiptop condition except Al Jackson, Catholic Youth organization lightweight.

Jackson suffered a cut right eye in conquering James Hunt, also of the C. Y. O., in the semifinals last Wednesday. If the injury is not sufficiently healed Hunt may be substituted for Albert against James Martin, his opponent in the championship round.

Chicago Women Capture Amateur Fencers' Meet

The University of Chicago A team won first place in the final round of the Amateur Fencers league's open women's meet yesterday by defeating Hermanson Fencing school, 5 to 2, and La Grange team, 5 to 1, in Mundelein college. Hermanson finished in second place, defeating La Grange, 5 to 0.

Sox Fill Up Night Dates for Summer

Chicago fans will get a chance to see every American league team in action under the Comiskey park lights next summer, but they won't have to take their night ball as fast as they did last season, in which 17 games were played, the first Aug. 14.

These and other schedule facts are revealed in the 1940 American league schedule, released this morning. The calendar reveals the following lamplit attractions, including a contest with the Detroit Tigers, who refused to accept a night date here last summer: Boston, Friday, June 14; Washington, Tuesday, June 25; New York, Friday, July 26; Philadelphia, Wednesday, July 31; Detroit, Friday, Aug. 9; Cleveland, Friday, Aug. 30, and St. Louis, Thursday, Sept. 5.

The Sox also will play night engagements in Philadelphia, on June 11, and in Cleveland on Aug. 14. A date in St. Louis is to be arranged later if the St. Louis club goes thru with its recently renewed plans to install a light plant.

Sox Get 12 Sundays.

In addition to the night games the Sox calendar caters to the working trade with 12 Saturdays, 12 Sundays, July 4, and Labor day.

The opening series in Comiskey park will be played with the Cleveland Indians on April 16, 17, and 18, the first time the Indians have opened here in many years. After this series Manager Jimmy Dykes will take his boys to St. Louis for the opener there, but will be back on the home grounds for three tilts with the Tigers April 22, 23, and 24.

They will hop to Cleveland for games on April 25 and 26, back here for matches with the Browns the next two days, and will open their first invasion of the east in Boston on April 30.

Red Sox Here May 14.

The easterners will show up here, starting with the Red Sox on May 14 and 15. The Yankees, Senators, and A's will follow the Red Sox in that order.

Days off after night games will not be the vogue as heretofore in the majors. It is said that the Yankees and Tigers would not have accepted dates under the former practice.

The Browns will be here on July 4 and the Tigers will be the attraction here Labor day. The Sox will play in Cleveland on Memorial day.

Bait Casters Get Chance to Try New Game

BY BOB BECKER.

A bait casting game that is new to most fishermen will be a feature of the National Boat and Sports show to be held on Navy pier Feb. 3 to 11. Skish is the name of the comparatively new sport which calls for accuracy in casting a plug. Skish contests will be sponsored by THE TRIBUNE at the show. Handsome trophies will be awarded to winners.

Skish was known as Fish-O until a few weeks ago when tackle manufacturers and outdoor writers selected the new name for this game which is growing rapidly in popularity. The backers of skish expect the game to boost off-season casting for fishermen, as skeet promoted year 'round shooting for hunters. Regular fishing equipment is used, so the ordinary fisherman has almost as good a chance to win as the experienced tournament caster.

Three Casts at 10 Targets.

In skish there are 10 targets, with each caster getting three casts at each target. Half of the casts are made from a sitting position and half are made while standing. On each target the caster gets five points for a perfect result on the first cast, three for perfect on the second cast, and two if the plug hits the target on the third cast.

Casters who plan to enter the tournament should address the writer for copies of the schedule and official rules.

Show Attracts 150 Boats.

Each year the boat and sports show attracts thousands of fishermen, hunters, boat enthusiasts, and others interested in the outdoors. This year more than 150 boats, representing almost all types used for pleasure and sport, will be displayed on the pier. Other exhibitors will include resort owners, fishing tackle manufacturers, and the conservation departments of most of the nearby states. There also will be displays of fish, pheasants, a complete beaver colony, raccoons, foxes, mink, deer, and other game birds and animals.

Fishermen not only will have a chance to take part in skish contests at the pier show but also in The Tribune's second casting tournament to be held in the International amphitheater Feb. 17-25 during the International Outdoor Sportsmen's show. Obstacle casting, which was introduced during last year's casting tournament in the amphitheater, also will be on the schedule.

FERRIS, KIEFER WIN TWO RACES IN ICE REGATTA

Bob Ferris and George Kiefer won the four races sailed yesterday by the Skeeter Ice Yacht club on Lake Geneva. A steady west wind reaching as high as 30 miles per hour favored the fleet of 18 class E [Skeeter] racers.

Ferris, at the helm of his entry, Grumpy, made the best time of the series, 11 minutes for the six mile course. Grumpy won both races for A division craft. Don Campbell finished second in the first race, and Charles Edwards was runner up in the second.

Gee Kay, sailed by Kiefer, won both B division events, with Charles Sawyer finishing second in both races.

CUNNINGHAM TO RETIRE IN 1941, BEGIN TEACHING

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Glenn Cunningham, holder of the American records for the mile and 1,000 yard runs, announced his intention to retire in an interview tonight.

Cunningham said he would not compete after this year and would seek a teaching position in a physical education department, preferably in the widwest.

"I've continued in competition these last two years mainly with the hope of trying out for my third successive Olympic team," he explained. "Now conditions have made the holding of the Olympic games impossible, so why go on? Hence my decision to retire."

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

SILVER ACT GOAL FADES AFTER 5½ YEARS' BUYING

Legislation Futile, Experts Assert.

New York, Jan. 21 [Special].—After five and one-half years of operation of the silver purchase act, the United States treasury is farther away from the goal set by the act than it was when the legislation was adopted. This fact was disclosed today in the annual silver market review of Handy & Harman, principal bullion dealers.

[The silver act requires that the treasury purchase the metal until holdings are equal to one-fourth the combined monetary supply of gold and silver. Heavy imports of foreign gold are mainly responsible for the failure of the treasury to fulfill the terms of the act.]

Proclaim Futility of Act.

"Once again," the Handy & Harman review said, "the year-end figures proclaim the futility of attempting to meet the requirement of the silver purchase act. After five and one-half years of operation, and after more than 2,200,000,000 ounces of silver have been bought, the goal set by the act actually is 291,000,000 ounces farther away than it was when the legislation was passed in June, 1934."

The United States government in 1939 bought approximately 341,400,000 ounces of silver, of which 60,600,000 ounces were derived from domestic ores, according to the review. The year's acquisitions, added to the 2,588,600,000 ounces on hand at the beginning of 1939, brought the total of United States government holdings of silver to 2,930,000,000 ounces on Dec. 31.

Production Nearly Steady.

The firm estimated that world silver production last year was about 266,000,000 ounces, or about the same as in 1938. The production was apportioned approximately as follows: United States, 57,000,000 ounces; Mexico, 81,000,000 ounces; Canada, 24,700,000 ounces; South America, 34,700,000 ounces; all other countries, 68,600,000 ounces. Supplies of previously mined silver coming into the market were estimated at 137,000,000 ounces, of which probably 65,000,000 were from Indian government stocks and 60,000 from China.

"Unless there occurs a substantial decline in production or an offsetting increase in consumption apart from United States government purchases, neither of which development seems probable at present," the review said, "the current price level of foreign silver [35 cents an ounce] can be maintained only by a continuance of treasury support."

ICKES GIVES RULE ON POWER SALE IN BIG NEW PROJECT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Secretary Ickes informed Gov. Colbert L. Olson today that if California desired to purchase the electrical output of the Central Valley reclamation project it would have to establish local power districts or other proper distribution organizations.

"I shall consider the state or its authorized agency ready to negotiate with the United States for the purchase of power from the project when it has a suitable market for power," Ickes wrote the governor. "I should, however, consider the state in the preferential market for power only to the extent to which it was prepared to market that power directly to consumers or among public power agencies."

Olson had asked Ickes to outline the government's position concerning disposal of power and water from Shasta dam in the Central Valley project, which the reclamation service expects to complete by 1943.

RAILROAD CAR ORDERS REPORTED HEAVIEST FOR JAN. 1 SINCE 1926

Equipment manufacturers had orders for 37,099 freight cars for the nation's carriers on Jan. 1, the largest number for the start of any year since 1926, the Association of American Railroads announced yesterday. The

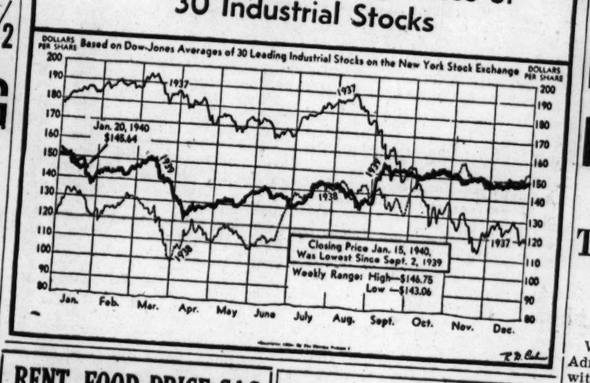
The carriers on Jan. 1 had 51 steam and 66 electric and Diesel locomotives on order, against 30 and 43, respectively, a year earlier. Locomotives placed in service last year numbered 320, compared with 276 in 1938.

Average Daily Closing Prices of 30 Industrial Stocks



RENT, FOOD PRICE SAG PROVIDES EXTRA CASH FOR AVERAGE WORKER

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—A decline in the cost of foods and rents during December left the average American worker a little extra cash in his budget, the National Industrial Conference board, a private statistical organization, reported today.

Total living costs that month were 0.6 per cent less than a year earlier. They were 15 per cent less than in December, 1929, but 19 per cent higher than the low point of 1933.

Food prices were 1.4 per cent below November and 2.2 per cent under a year earlier. Rentals dropped 0.1 per cent from November, but were 0.5 per cent higher than in December, 1938.

EUROPE TURNS TO AMERICA FOR CORN SUPPLIES

Europe is estimated to have purchased at least 3 million bushels of American corn during the last week despite reports that every effort would be made to curtail imports.

Inability to obtain corn from other countries was said by Chicago experts to be responsible for placing the business in the United States.

Grain prices averaged somewhat higher during last week, due mainly to short covering and buying induced by fears that hostilities in Europe would spread to some of the neutral countries.

Grain prices last week were:

ASSURES MERGER WILL KEEP FISK PLANTS ACTIVE

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—F. B. Davis Jr., head of the United States Rubber company, promised today continued operation, "probably at even higher capacity," for the plants at Chicopee Falls and New Bedford, Mass., which his company recently purchased from Fisk Rubber company.

A minority stockholders' group, led by Whitfield Reid, Springfield, Mass., attorney, has opposed the transaction. He contends, among other objections, that it may mean closing or smaller production for the New England plants.

Fisk property and assets have been transferred to United States Rubber, but Reid's group, at a stockholders' meeting at Wilmington, Del., last Friday was able to block a proposal for dissolution of Fisk. The sale fight is still before federal court at Boston.

End of Treaty Increases Jap Fear of Future

TOKIO, Jan. 21 (AP).—Japan believes that the dangers of her international position will be greatly increased after her treaty of amity and commerce with the United States expires next Friday, altho some of the results most feared apparently have been fended off or postponed.

More than ever before, Japanese leaders admit, the end of the treaty, which has been in effect for 28 years, will place Japan's economic life, and with it her political future, at the mercy of changes across the Pacific.

Word from Washington and authoritative forecasts of Japanese government action indicate that trade between the two countries will continue without change in tariffs, port dues and other factors, but the Japanese realize this apparent continuity must be on a day to day basis that may be ended any time Washington sees fit.

Viewed with Foreboding.

Because the United States is both Japan's best customer and the chief foreign source of her war supplies, the situation makes Japanese officials view the future with foreboding.

What they fear most is the threat of an American embargo on such materials as scrap iron and oil, which might stall the Japanese war machine in China. Recent Washington news has been reassuring on this score, but there is no telling when American sentiment may change drastically and bring action.

The Japanese government, according to the well-informed newspaper Asahi, is preparing a decree that will continue all present tariffs and other laws affecting American trade after next Friday in the hope that this will permit trade to continue on an even keel indefinitely. Officials also are working toward some temporary accord that would serve until a more lasting treaty can be negotiated.

Vital to Industry.

American raw materials are vital to Japan's industrial life and therefore to her war machine. Most of her oil and gasoline comes from American wells and most of her huge scrap iron imports comes from the United States. There is serious doubt here whether heavy industries could keep going at present rates if there were an American embargo. Effects on the war machine might not be immediate, however, since reserves have been piled up. The Japanese navy is believed to have stores of ship and plane fuel sufficient to last two years.

There is a conviction here that President Roosevelt's abrogation of the treaty was due in large measure to a desire to obtain freedom to exert economic pressure on Japan when time comes to settle the differences arising from Japan's invasion of China and its effects on American treaty rights and interests.

Thoughtful Japanese do not bar the possibility that the expiration of the treaty may produce great trouble. An American embargo, they say, would produce in Japan an explosion of anger and retaliation.

STEEL OUTPUT IS EXPECTED TO DROP FURTHER

The magazine Steel yesterday credited two factors with a prospective decline in the nation's steel operations. Already, the publication reported, ingot production has dropped 1½ points, and last week was at 84.5 per cent of theoretical capacity. It forecast a drop in operations during the next few weeks because:

1. Buying is currently well below the present rate of production and shipments, largely a reaction from the autumn rush in orders.

2. Consumers are showing a tendency to curtail inventories now that faster deliveries are available.

W.W.Thompson to Manage Hemphill, Noyes Division

Hemphill, Noyes & Co., member of the New York Stock exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade, and the Chicago Stock exchange, yesterday announced the appointment of W. Wallace Thompson as manager of the investment division of the firm's Chicago office. Thompson, recently associated with Harris, Hall & Co., has been in the investment business in Chicago since 1919. He was formerly manager of the Chicago office of White, Weld & Co.

England Believed to Have Set Steel Output Record

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 21. — Altho figures no longer are published, it is understood that British steel production in 1939 exceeded the previous high record of 13 million tons established in 1937.

BRITISH CLOSING DOORS TO U. S. FARM PRODUCTS

Trade Losses Cause Much Concern.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Administration officials are watching with growing concern British imposition of import and shipping restrictions that threaten to deprive American farmers of export markets. In her effort to defeat Germany, Great Britain not only has shut American agricultural products out of German markets, thru use of the naval blockade, but is closing the doors of her own markets.

Back of the British action is a desire to conserve foreign exchange in this country for purchase of war materials and to strengthen economic and political ties with friendly nations in Europe and with empire countries by obtaining farm products from them.

[Japanese fears over the termination of the American trade treaty are reported in an adjoining column.]

Follows Other Difficulties.

British restrictions on purchases of farm products from this country have come on top of such matters as Britain's censorship of American mails, the forcing of American ships into British ports they are forbidden by their own country's law to enter, and Britain's refusal to recognize the American neutrality zone.

The whole has created much irritation and expressions undoubtedly have made clear to the British embassy that American public opinion is being adversely affected.

The British trade program has hit hardest American producers of tobacco, cotton, wheat, and fruits. The volume of American farm goods moving abroad started declining after the war started and in November, the latest month for which complete figures are available, it was the smallest for that month since the drouth year of 1934.

Expected to Continue.

"This situation is likely to continue thru much of 1940," the agriculture department said in a report on the export outlook.

The British government last week imposed a virtual embargo on American tobacco and turned to Turkey for supplies. This action shuts off one-third of the American export market. Officials said many districts in the south produced a type of tobacco developed especially for the British market.

Cotton farmers will be hurt eventually, officials said, by another measure taken by the British last week in a move to conserve shipping space on English boats. American cotton will be allotted space for only 100,000 bales monthly during the next six months. United States apple and pear exports to Britain and France have been completely cut off. The joint British-French buying policy favors citrus fruit from Mediterranean countries. Similar restrictions are bearing adversely on 91 per cent of the American export trade in dried and canned fruits. The program also was said to be favoring pork products produced in countries other than the United States.

MONOPOLY PROBE TO RESUME ITS STUDY OF STEEL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—The monopoly investigating committee announced today that it would resume on Tuesday public hearings in connection with its study of the steel industry. The committee will consider material presented to it by the United States Steel corporation during sessions held last November.

Among witnesses expected to testify are Benjamin F. Fairless, president, and Avery C. Adams, vice president, of United States Steel; Prof. Theodore Ott Yntema of the University of Chicago; Dr. Melvin G. Dechazeau of the University of Virginia; and Mordecai Ezekial and Louis Bean, economic advisors to the agriculture department.

NATIONAL STANDARD.

I would appreciate receiving information about National Standard stock.—I. J. M.

Answer: National Standard company operates six plants in this country and one each in Canada and England. About one-half of the firm's production is the fabrication of wire braid used by auto manufacturers.

Besides the wire fabricating division, the company operates three other divisions which make drawn wire, flat rolled steel, and special machinery used to decorate metal sheets.

Capitalization of the firm consists of 268,340 shares of $10 par capital stock listed on the Chicago Stock exchange. The company has paid dividends each year since 1926.

Earnings in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1939, almost tripled those of the preceding year. The company's annual report for the latest period said that income from the English and Canadian operations would have been larger had it not been for the unfavorable rate of exchange.

1935	$348,000	$2.60	$2.00
1936	652,000	4.86	3.37½
1937	774,000	2.88	*2.00
1938	262,000	.98	.87½
1939	725,000	2.70	2.37½

*Two new $10 par shares were given in exchange in 1937 for one old no par share, after 75 cents a share was paid on Jan. 2, 1937, on the old shares. Dividends on the new shares in 1937 totaled $1.62½ a share.

The company's balance sheet for Sept. 30, 1939, showed total assets of $4,885,485, including current assets of $2,446,068. Current liabilities were $662,687.

PLATINUM.

Can platinum be purchased in futures contracts like wheat or tin? What has been the price of platinum in recent years?—M. L.

Answer: There is no organized market in this country on which platinum is traded, either for immediate or future delivery. The market for this precious metal is created among refiners and producers. Most of the metal is purchased by the jewelry trade. Price fluctuates with demand for jewelry and other luxury goods.

Refined platinum is selling currently around $40 a troy ounce. The average price in 1939 was approximately $38.50 an ounce; in 1938, $35.90; in 1937, $51.77; in 1936, $42.92, and in 1935, $34.15.
